Township to Lose Thousands in Taxes If Institutions' Unused Land Becomes Exempt

"Frightening" was the word used by both the Township attorney and the Township tax assessor last week to describe the potential effect of allowing unused lands, held by non-profit institutions, to be tax exempt under the Green Acres law.

The immediate focus is on two institutions–All Saints Church and the Institute for Advanced Study. The Appellate Court ruled, in their favor, that 42.3 acres of the church's property off Van Dyke Road, and some 284 acres of Institute woodland were tax-exempt as open space.

Under 1976 tax rates, this is $25,665.56 off the Township tax rolls and onto everyone else's tax bill, because it must be made up somehow.

Last Wednesday, Township Committee agreed with attorney Allan Porter that it was worth asking the State Supreme Court to consider the matter. The required notice of petition has been filed, and the petition asking the court for certification, will follow.

Mr. Porter explained to Committee that he believes the case to be one of general public importance and quite possibly of state-wide significance. Because of this, he feels there is a good chance that the Supreme Court will agree to hear the case. (Mr. Porter has been acting as the Township's attorney because the regular attorney, Gordon Griffin, is a member of All Saints, and felt he should withdraw.)

What scares both Stuart Robson, Township and Borough tax assessor, and Mr. Griffin, is the spectre of all the other unused land under the ownership of non-profit institutions.

In the corner of the Township, around Drakes Corner Road and Province Line, Princeton University owns three parcels of land: one is 129 acres, assessed at $407,000; the second, of 100 acres, is assessed at $311,000; the third, containing 147 acres, is assessed at $452,000. Total $1,170,000.

Current taxes, under the 1976 rate: $44,928.

In addition, the University pays taxes on Lake Carnegie, which is assessed at $29,800, and on the little boat-house in the Shady-Brook area, assessed at $3,800.

This, of course, is only the University.

Our Lady of Princeton, at the corner of The Great Road and Drakes Corner, owns about 60 acres. Both Stuart Country Day School and Princeton Day School own acreage beyond their normal, tax-exempt school facilities.

"It would be frightening indeed if the mere passive existence of these lands resulted in tax-exemption," Mr. Griffin remarked to Committee.

"We're sitting on this bomb!" exclaimed Committee member Hugo Hoogenboom.

Search for School Superintendent Narrows To Two as Board Turns Down Edith Francis

The search for Princeton's new school superintendent dissolved into a kind of Alice in Wonderland world during its final days this week.

● The promised three finalists turned out to be, suriously, and without explanation, only two.

● Black residents were mystified and concerned that Edith Francis had not been considered as a finalist, although they say the school board told them she would be. (See Mailbox, Page 19)

● The school board declined to release the names of the two finalists, and solemnly barred the press from community interviews held Friday and Monday. But 35 citizens named by the board were doing the interviewing, and the town grapevine conveyed all the information anybody wanted to have.

The board is now meeting to make its decision, expected late this week, although The Black Caucus has asked the board to re-consider its decision to eliminate Mrs. Francis from the finals

The two finalists are Lawrence Roder, superintendent of schools in Glen Ridge, N.J., and Paul Houston, assistant superintendent of schools in Birmingham, Alabama. Dr. Roder was interviewed by the citizen group on Friday, and Dr. Houston on Monday.

Questions Posed. In the interviewing process, the 35 citizens sat around a table, each one asking questions of the candidate. When the interview was over--a process which occupied over two hours--all the citizens wrote their impressions and handed them in.

The citizens asked such questions as "How would you deal with conflict in the schools?" "How would you organize the system?"

"What are your views on the teaching of basic skills, on evaluation, on curriculum planning, community participation, state testing?"

Dr. Roder reportedly told the group that if he could have his way with the board, he'd like tenure in two years, instead of the usual three. He also is reported to have told the school staff, earlier, that if chosen, he would not live in Princeton and if he had to live here, wouldn't take the job.

He is uncomfortable about New Jersey's state testing, he told the group, and is not sure it tests basic skills. Asked his views on evaluation, he said teachers should make syllabi, which are then monitored. He would work through principals, he explained to the group, rather than dealing directly with teachers.

When one citizen asked how he felt about community participation, Dr. Roder replied, "Like it or not, it's here to stay."

Roder's Background. A 1956 graduate of Queens College, Dr. Roder holds the doctorate from Teachers College, Columbia University (1961). He has been a teacher, principal, and assistant superintendent in other districts, before becoming superintendent for Glen Ridge.

One member of the citizens committee remarked after the interview that Dr. Roder impressed the group with the way he handled himself.

Paul Houston, who incidentally has a strong southern accent, registered favorably with at least one black member of the citizens group who said, "I'd have voted for him right there--I felt very warm toward him. He has a black secretary, he's been in a predominantly black school district, he seemed humble and not arrogant and to want to do a job."

Dr. Houston was graduated from Ohio State in 1966 and received his doctorate from Harvard in 1973. He was a principal in Summit, N.J., from 1972-4 and has been assistant superintendent in Birmingham since 1974.

NAACP Represented. At his Monday interview, members of the NAACP chapter here protested that they were not included in the citizens group and tried to join in the interviewing. Their president, Grace Wilson, was admitted.

When one citizen asked whether Dr. Houston believed in "change for its own sake," the candidate reportedly replied,

"You don't know how good Princeton's system is. It needs fine tuning, rather than change."

But he also said he had a sign on his office wall which said, "....but we've always done it that way!"

He was told that local institutions, like the governing bodies, seem to be alienated from the system, and asked what he would do. He told the questioner that he would reach out, and try to bring them back.

On curriculum, he told the group that a school board is entitled to determine curriculum, while it is the job of the staff to find the most effective way to carry it out.

Charges Levelled. Regarding Mrs. Francis, the Rev. Leon Gipson, chairman of the Black Caucus, said it was the understanding of the black community that the acting superintendent would be among the finalists.

"It's like asking a black to keep house then giving the house to a white," he said.

"Board members told me she'd done a good job and had healed many wounds," the Rev. Mr. Gipson continued. "Hannah Fox told me, 'She'll be somebody's superintendent some day, but not Princeton's. She's the most capable person in the system.'"

"The important thing was CONSIDER her," he emphasized.

In its letter to Dietrich Meyerhofer, board president, the Black Caucus points out that among the finalists, Mrs. Francis would have been the only minority candidate, the only woman, the only one from within the Princeton system.

"It is unconscionable that she was not considered as a finalist," the letter declares. "We are not attempting to dictate the decision of the board, but rather calling your attention to the ambiguities and contridictions of this act."

"Many whites in the community are as displeased as we," the Rev. Mr. Gipson added.

More Questions. At Monday's League of Women Voters' candidates' night, Walton Johnson asked why only two finalists were chosen, and questioned whether there had been enough community involvement.

The board followed the recommendations of its consultants, Dr. Meyerhofer told him. Mrs. Fox said, "The board is the community's representative."

Joseph P. Moore, board candidate, said the letter inviting him to serve on the citizens committee, had said "five or six" candidates would be interviewed.

The group of citizens was led by Alden Dunham. Individuals and organizations represented were:

George Petrillo (PRAA); Martin Schneiderman (PREA); Betsy Germond (PRESA); Gary Nemeth (PRSMSA); Ann Thomas (aides); Mrs. James McKeever (YM-YWCA); Walton Johnson (goals committee); Ann Cobb (PTO); the Rev. Leon Gipson (Mt. Pisgah); Paul Chesebro (Chamber of Commerce); Leonard Brown (Youth Center); Ernest Buermeyer (AARP); Sally Jesser (League of Women Voters); Gordon Silverstein (PHS Students); Wilbert Brooks (PRSMSA); Janet Pearson (Community Services); Alice Packard (Grey Panthers and former Riverside principal); Kate Litvak (Joint Recreation Board); Nancy di Meglio (Italian Americans).

Also Henry Patterson, Nanette Gibson, Rosalind Frisch, Joseph Blanc, Robert Durkee, Leslie C. Vivian, Louise Bessire, Joseph P. Moore, David Male, Thomas Moore, John D. Wallace, Nils Nielsen, David Brodsky, Henry Powsner and Mrs. J. Stuart Hunter.

Tax Exempt Land

An even grimmer problem, could arise, one with implications bordering on science fiction, Mr. Robson points out. Under the Federal tax-exempt law, the old 501 C 3, he says, individuals could set up a tax-exempt corporation for any purpose, sell or give their land to that corporation, sell it back again then apply for tax-exemption under the new Green Acres law.

Tax-exemption under the Green Acres act applies to conservation organizations. Mr. Porter told Committee that the Appellate Court ruled All Saints and the Institute were "conaervation organizations," and were not precluded from engaging in conservation.

Of Primary Concern? "An organization must have the power to engage in conservation," Mr. Porter elaborated, "but we say that an organization must be one whose PRIMARY CONCERN is conservation, and this does not apply to either of those institutions."

The case, incidentally, went directly to the Appellate Court because the Township was appealing a decision from a state administrative agency – the Department of Environmental Protection.

These are the first exemptions in New Jersey granted under the Green Acres law.

Huge Beer Can Swap Set

The opportunity to swap is essential to the collector whether he deals in marbles, baseball cards or beer cans. "Super Swap," billed as "the largest beer can trading session ever held in New Jersey," will take place Sunday, March 27, from noon to 5, at Princeton Day School. It is sponsored by the Garden State Chapter of the Beer Can Collectors of America and by the makers of Rheingold Beer, New Jersey's home brew.

More than 200 collectors from a dozen states are expected, each with a trunkful of tinny treasures to trade. Trading is the order of the day, as the BCCA is opposed to buying and selling. Admission is $3 for BCCA members, $4 for non-BCCA traders and $1 for non-trading observers.

"We're not against either the Institute or All Saints," Mr. Porter told Committee. "It's to test the validity of the act, and to see whether the Appellate Court's interpretation was proper because other properties might qualify.

"I think conservation as a primary purpose is what the act had in mind," he continued, "that the land be used, and open for recrestion and conservation. All Saints hasn't done anything affirmatively with their land."

Understanding Expressed. Everyone on Committee sympathized with the Institute, most members having walked its paths and watched its birds dozens of times. Carl Pope, for the Institute, reminded Committee that the woods and trails had been open to the public since the late 1930s, that the Institute had allowed Department of Agriculture gypsy moth experiments and employed its own game warden.

"It's not a cheap piece of property to maintain," Mr. Pope remarked.

He also recalled the Institute's purchase, in the 1960s, of the Eno and Updyke farm lands, "to keep development out." Mercer Mall is across the way.

"We've been good Township neighbors," he said.

"If the Township prevails, what would the Institute's attitude be?" Mr. Hoogenboom asked.

Mr. Pope replied that Institute trustees were bound by laws, but he did not elaborate further.

The Basic Question. "There is no question about the Institute's use," Mr. Porter said. "The questioo is – do these organizations come under the definition of "eligible organizations?""

"We want to encourage the Institute," Mr. Hoogenboom commented, "but we don't want a tax shelter for land that will ultimately be developed. The disappearance of large tracts from the tax base is a liability we can't afford."

In later comments on the question, Mr. Robson warned that "when you lower the tax base, you raise the rate."

"Every time a property goes off the tax rolls and onto the exempt list – Borough or Township -- the taxpayers must make it up," he points out. "That money STILL must be raised. Non-profit institutions who take property off the tax rolls, are simply taking money from taxpayers."

A Fair Share. The assessor reminds taxpayers, however, that Princeton University is a good taxpayer: it does not claim farm-land taxes in Princeton Township, and pays regular taxes on open land like everyone else.

Also, with Palmer Stadium and University housing, it is the biggest taxpayer in the Township and the largest land-owner.

Concerned about the erosion of the tax base, the two Princetons last fall began a continuing study of the problem through Mr. Griffin's office.

"We're in constant touch with non-profit institutions," Mr. Robson says, "for example, if a minister lives in a church-owned, tax-exempt house and begins to rent rooms, the house is no longer tax-exempt."

Mr. Robson hopes the study will be completed this summer and a series of guidelines can be established, so that institutions will know what they should be doing, under state laws.

SUE OVER SEWERS?

Borough is Alarmed. "I think they're sweeping it under the rug," declared Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley at his Tuesday press conference, referring to apparent Township lack of interest in the "contingent liability" problem in municipal agreements with the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority.

The mayor also warned that the Borough may consider court action if the three-plant system is adopted, "depending on what Gordon turns up."

Gordon Griffin, Borough municipal attorney, is investigating contingent liability at the request of Borough Council, and is expected to report his findings shortly, but not in time for this Wednesday's Council meeting.

"Contingent liability," broadly speaking, means that if Hopewell Township, having decided it wants the three-plant system and limited population growth, decides it wants more people and needs more sewer facilities, the other six members of the Authority would have to share the costs of building Hopewell's expanded sewer system.

Former Princeton Township Mayor Jay Bleiman also felt strongly that the concept was a potentially dangerous one; however, present Mayor Josie Hall and Township Committee as a whole, have not expressed concern. All are supporters of the three-plant system.

"I believe the Borough has a very substantial vulnerability," Mayor Cawley said.

Heads of Regional Schools Urge Budget's Passage Next Tuesday

"Do NOT punish our children if you are personally dissatisfied," was the plea from Acting Superintendent of Schools Edith Francis at a principals' press conference held Thursday to urge passage of the school budget at next Tuesday's election.

It was the first time Princeton's principals had held such a conference and made such a plea.

"It is our responsibility to the community," Mrs. Francis said. "We want community support, and we are standing as one."

"It will be rough, even if the budget passes," observed Acting Riverside Principal Florence Burke.

"We want to make it clear we aren't issuing a threat," explained Murray Cohen, of Johnson Park, "but every year of cut means a step backward. We've had two defeats in two years! People say, well, they seem to be getting along all right even with the cuts, but it isn't so. We haven't replaced workbooks and textbooks or audio-visual equipment, and you can do this for just so long."

"We're regarded as a "lighthouse district,' " Mr. Cohen observed.

Library Threatened. "Community Park has one of the finest elementary libraries in the state," said its principal, Eugene Biringer. "We can't continue at this level if we must continue to cut."

Sharpest elementary cuts have been in music and the arts and parent volunteers have been helping out here. But Acting Littlebrook Principal Nancy Devlin believes this puts "an unfair burden on parents."

"We shouldn't be meeting our fundamental program needs with volunteers," commented Charles Huchet, director of Student Services, "besides, good volunteers go off to school so they can do the same work and get paid!"

Pressed to be specific about cuts at Princeton High if the budget goes down, Principal George Petrillo said it was hard to do so.

Staff programs and extra-curricular activities would all be cut, he said. Among the casualties could be an English teacher, small classes, possibly Independent Study--which now has 82 students.

"There is a fear of becoming mediocre," obeserved Middle School's William Johnson. "These are the forces bringing us to mediocrity."

Cuts Already Made. "Significant" cuts have already been made in nursing service, psychologists, social workers and speech therapists, Dr. Huchet pointed out, adding:

"The irony is, that the state's compensatory education requirements and T and E mean that we need these people. And parental demands are increasing as people learn more about T & E.

"Parents tell us, you have a legal mandate to provide a thorough and efficient education for my child! And when people say we're getting along all right even with cuts, I say that non-English speaking kids who are no longer being taught English through TESOL, and no pre-K for four-year-olds and no more foreign language in elementary grades--these people don't say we're 'getting along fine.' "

Dr. Huchet said that "fortunately," the schools can't point to lower College Board scores or lack of jobs for graduates as a result of budget cuts "...and I hope we never do."

206 LOOMS AS PROBLEM

Council to Consider. Firmly opposed to making Route 206 a four-lane highway within the boundaries of Princeton and anxious to have a voice in state studies of the project, Borough Council this Wednesday will consider passage of a resolution re-inforcing a letter to the state from the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council, signed by its director, Samuel M. Hamill Jr.

It is Council's regular March meeting, and it will be held at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall.

Also on the agenda is the public hearing on the municipal budget, and hearing on ordinances setting a two-hour parking on Hodge Road and bonding the purchase of equipment and reconstruction of streets.

Council will also introduce an ordinance to finance, through bonds, reconstruction of Spruce Street.

Mr. Hamill's letter came out of a conference held last Saturday among representatives of Princeton Borough and Township, Montgomery, Hillsborough and the M.S.M. Individual resolutions by these municipalities are designed to underline the letter.

The state is studying dualization of Route 206 between I-287 in Bridgewater, and the Route 27 intersection in Princeton--the head of Bayard Lane. The communities want to be sure that they are involved in these state studies. They also urge Commmissioner Alan Sagner of the Department of Transportation, to select a consultant who is a planner and designer, as well as an engineer.

The letter says that it is "impractical" to halt the study at the Bayard-Nassau intersection because "neither Route 206 in Princeton Borough or Township, nor Route 27--Nassau Street--could accept increased traffic resulting from a dualized Route 206.

The towns ask the state to expand planning to consider alternatives to Route 206 in the Princeton area--the 92-A bypass between Route 206 and Route One, and a westward alternative bypass possibly related to the proposed 'Artic Parkway Extension' that terminates now at I-295 in Lawrence Township.

The state's chief design engineer, Frank S. Parker, had suggested a "Route 206 Advisory Committee," and Mr. Hamill's letter names representatives who might serve. The list includes Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley, Township Mayor Josie Hall, planning board chairman Margen Penick, Mr. Hamill and representatives from Hillsborough, Montgomery and the Somerset County Planning Board.

19 VANDEVENTER

Legal Snarl? It's the big, handsome yellow house on the corner of Vandeventer and Park, and it has presented the Planning Board with a legal problem as gnarled and snarled as the old catalpa tree in the front yard.

Claudette Rubin, who owns the house and lives in it, wants to subdivide so that she can build a second house on the rear part of the property. But she has only 79 feet in depth and needs 100 under the zoning law, and she thinks a house would look better if it's set back only 10 feet--like other houses on the street--instead of the required 25. She needs, therefore, variances.

In the good old days, subdivisions went before the Planning Board and variances before the Zoning Board. But New Jersey's new land use law has been in effect since February 1. Under it, a developer who needs both subdivision and variance goes only to the Planning Board, in what the law's sponsors called convenient, "one-stop shopping."

Convenient, that is, except for Planning Board members. In order to obtain the variances Mrs. Rubin wants, she must prove "hardship" and show the board that what she wants to do won't impair the intent and purpose of the zoning ordinance--a concept called "negative criteria."

Not easy for a board to grapple with in any case, but Zoning Boards do it all the time. The trouble is, the Planning Board has had no experience in these zoning matters and has been so occupied with other problems--chiefly the housing Master Plan--that it hasn't had time for homework.

Proposal Opposed. "You are bringing the hardship on yourself by subdividing," board member Jerome Rose, a lawyer with zoning experience, said to William Baggitt, lawyer representing Mrs. Rubin.

Salute the Irishman!

St. Patrick always
Brings the green,
Gives every bud
A glistening sheen.

St. Patrick has had all kinds of help turning the world toward an early greening. For the first half of the month, March has been providing us with temperatures as much above normal as January was below its mean readings.

All of this is to continue at least through the end of the week. A slight downward trend is expected Thursday, the Man reports, but Friday and Saturday will be milder again, with showers a Saturday possibility.

Ready for Spring? Look for it to arrive Monday at 43 minutes after 12 noon.

Mr. Baggitt observed glumly that in pre-land use days, the subdivision and hardship aspects would have been handled separately. In fact, he reminded the board that the property had been granted a subdivision back in 1972 when it was owned by somebody else.

The eight members of the board who were present, agreed they needed legal instruction before they could act, and they put off a decision to the April 5 meeting. William von Oehsen, the Borough Zoning Board's lawyer, will be there to advise them.

Before that decision, however, the board heard Madison Street neighbors protest that another house would flood them with additional sewer problems. They have plenty now, with unsavory back-ups, basement water in high rains, and the like. They were urged to take these problems to Borough Council.

Mr. Baggitt told the board the new house would help ease housing needs in the Central Business District. Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley said yes, but open-space needs in the CBD are important, too. Residents of Park Place and Madison protested that another house would crowd the neighborhood.

No Major Change Seen. Meeting housing needs will be painful, warned board member Martin P. Lombardo, but he said this one new house wouldn't change the neighborhood drastically.

Martha Lamar of the board said she agreed with Mr. Lombardo, and Hans K. Sander said,

"What will happen to this town if every neighborhood says yes, you should build more houses, but not here?"

Because of the late hour--11:30--the board re-scheduled to this Tuesday the plans of Trinity Church to wrap a new addition around the rear of its Pierce Hall parish house.

Gowns from 1902 Trousseau Gain New Life With Aid of Princeton's Outgrown Shop

What one woman no longer desires may be just what another covets or needs. This guiding principle behind many successful fund-raising efforts sometimes results in an ideal transfer between consignor and consignee.

Mrs. Xaver Von Erdberg of 84 Wilson Road brought in a number of articles of clothing to the Outgrown Shop at 234 Nassau Street for consignment. Included in the lot were two gowns that were part of her mother's trousseau for her wedding in 1902.

Mrs. Von Erdberg's mother was Mrs. William Kelly Prentice, the former Aline Glenny of Buffalo, and wife of the well-known professor of Greek literature and language at Princeton University who was a member of the faculty from 1894 until his retirement in 1940.

A day or so later, Mrs. Hugh Ford, wife of an English professor at Trenton State College, came into the shop and spied the two gowns hanging against a wall. She realized that one would be perfect to wear to the opening of an exhibition called "New York-Paris" at the new Pompidou Center for Art and Culture to which she and her husband had been invited at the end of May. Prof. Ford, who is author of "Published in Paris," a book about expatriate writers living and working in Paris in the late 1920's, was asked to write the literary chronology of American and French authors for the exhibition catalogue.

Mrs. Ford, who is a petite size 10 and French-Canadian born, is delighted with her new finds. She plans to offer one dress to her daughter as a possible wedding gown and the other, which fits perfectly, she expects to wear to other occasions after her return from Paris. It is made of ruffles of lace on a camisole with a ruffled fish-tail pleat in the back and a covering peignoir with a squared neck and a scalloped embroidered border.

PERFECT FOR PARIS: This peignoir, which was part of the trousseau for the 1902 wedding of a Buffalo girl to a Princeton professor, is what Mrs. Hugh Ford will wear at the opening of an exhibit, "New York-Paris," in the new Georges Pompidou National Center of Art and Culture in Paris late in May. Mrs. Ford discovered the gown at the Outgrown Shop, which is run as a benefit for Princeton Day School's scholarship fund.

The Outgrown Shop, which is run by parents and alumnae as a benefit for the scholarship fund of Princeton Day School, last year contributed more than $17,000 to the fund. Although none of the hundreds of items donated or brought in on consignment had quite the romantic background or destination of these two unusual gowns, one never knows what might turn up during spring cleaning.

Members will consider a request to change the name of the Wildlife Refuge off Lower Alexander, to honor the memory of the late Charles H. Rogers, noted ornithologist, who died February 26.

L.S. Greene has given the Township a parcel of land in the Brookstone area, and Committee will hold a hearing on the ordinance accepting it. The change in name from Galbreath Drive to Lambert Drive is also on the agenda for public hearing.

In new business, Committee will consider resolutions authorizing gypsy moth spraying and a study of the police communications system, and will hear the Institute for Advanced Study's application for a club liquor license.

Engineer Joseph Hodak is expected to report on bids for construction of The Great Road bike path.

CAR TRUNK LOOTED

$1,000 Camera Lens Stolen. Chester W. Dalgewicz, assistant wrestling coach at Princeton University and director of intramural athletics, would like to grapple with the thief who looted his car.

From the trunk of his car parked in a lot near the Jadwin Cage, a thief last week took a 35mm camera and a telephoto lens -- the lens valued at $1,000 – a Super 8 movie camera worth between $300 and $400, eight rolls of film, a tripod, a tool box and tools ($300) citizen band antenna ($18) and jumper cables ($420).

Police said a coat hanger had been used to enter the car and once inside the thief pushed a trunk release button. Ptl. James Vandermark investigated.

A 9 H.P. Briggs & Stratton engine valued at $712 was removed last week from a sewer dragging machine in a garage of the sewer plant located off River Road. The theft was reported by an employee, Alfred Kornegay.

Police said that bolt cutters were used to cut a chain holding the main gates. A vacant house on the property was also entered through a window but police say they haven't been able to determine whether anything was taken. The theft took place between 4:20 Thursday afternoon and Friday morning.

CB Stolen. Thomas J. LeProvost, 32 Birch Avenue, reported the theft last week of a $150 CB radio from his car while it was parked overnight in his driveway. A clothes hanger or similar instrument was used to enter the locked car, police said.

In the Borough, a skate board valued at $78.95 was shoplifted from the Nassau Hobby Shop, 142 Nassau Street. Police report that they have the description of two teenage suspects who they believed are involved.

A Pennington resident lost $75 last week when his wallet was removed from a gym bag in his car parked in a Princeton Medical Center lot. There was no forced entry.

When a University student left his room in Laughlin Hall for a few minutes last week to go to a lavatory, that was all the time a thief needed to slip in and remove a pocket calculator valued at $150.

TWO YOUTHS CHARGED

With Drug Possession. Two 17-year old Princeton youths have been charged with possession of hashish and under 25 grams of marijuana.

They were observed by Ptl. Mario Musso, in a car parked at night near the Princeton Day School football field. The officer allegedly noticed a plastic bag containing green vegetation on the floor of the car while he was checking them out.

Arrested and taken to police headquarters for processing, the two were later released to their parents, pending action by a juvenile court.

'FLASHER' IS SOUGHT

By Borough Police. Borough police are searching for a man who exposed himself to an 18-year old woman around midnight Monday as she was walking on Nassau Street near Moore.

Police report that the woman first observed the man with his back toward her. As she approached, he turned and exposed himself. He was described as in his 20s, 5-8 to 5-11, medium build with dark hair. Det. Timothy Hulzing is continuing the investigation.

HEART $$s RETURNED

By Honest Finder. Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus and there are still honest people in the world.

Richard Winthrop, a Borough resident, found three Heart Fund collection envelopes Thursday while he was walking on Paul Robeson Place around 8 in the evening. They contained $108.

He turned them over to a Borough patrol car and police, in turn, returned the money to Paul R. Chesebro, an officer in the Heart Fund campaign.

FOUR ARE FINED

In Borough Court. Four Princeotn area residents were fined Monday in Borough court, three for traffic violations.

Davis S. Black, 411B Butler Avenue, and Raymond Morales, 10 Nassau Street, were each charged with red light violations, while Hannah V. Van Zandt, Route 518, Blawenburg, answered a speeding charge. Each was fined $15.

Demitia Murphy, 12 Madison Street, paid $15 for violating the Borough's snow removal ordinance.

SUSPECT IS ARRESTED

In Wawa Market Robbery. Dennis W. Johson, 28, of Toms River, a former Princeton resident, was arrested last week at Borough police headquarters by Det. Timothy Huizing, who charged him with the robbery last week at the Wawa Market, 140 University Place.

Johnson was later released in $1,000 bail, pending his appearance in Borough court scheduled for April 27. His arrest, said Chief Michael Carnevale, was a result of the continuing police investigation by Det. Huizing. Johnson was one of the suspects police originally considered, Chief Carnevale added.

The robbery took place early Sunday morning March 6, after a telephone caller had ordered a night manager to put money from the store's cash registers in a paper bag and drop it in a trash can outside the store. The robber escaped with $227 which police recovered at the time of Johnson's arrest.

Traffic Light at Valley and No. Harrison, First Sought in '50s, Is Now in Operation

"This is a historic day – considering the number of years we spent trying to get it."

Township Chief Frederick Porter was commenting on the start of operation Tuesday of the long-sought traffic light at the intersection of Valley Road and North Harrison Street, opposite Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center.

"The light is in operation now and will be 24 hours a day," said Sgt. Anthony Nini, the Township's Traffic Safety Officer. That may change, however.

Sgt. Nini explained that police first want to assess the effects of the installation and to examine the amount of night traffic. If it isn't too heavy, Sgt. Nini indicated that police might experiment with putting the light on flash, possibly between midnight and 6 a.m.

"I came on the Safety Committee and we've been talking about it 15 years at least," Sgt. Nini recalled. "Every two or three years we would request it and finally we bought it." Purchased by the Township, the light was installed by the state's Department of Transportation.

Actually, the new light may be only a temporary solution to the dangerous intersection that has been a hazard ever since the Shopping Center was built in 1953.

In 1971, a government agency TOPICS (Traffic Operations to Increase Capacity and Safety) sent representatives fanning out to different municipalities to investigate dangerous intersections. High on its priority list for needed improvement was North Harrison and Valley Road. The agency set aside $42,500 for such things as realignment, narrowing the Harrison Street island 300 feet at both ends, the installation of trip devices under the roadway to speed traffic flow..."It was to be a first-class job," said Sgt. Nini.

Unfortunately for Princeton, other municipalities got there first, and by the time Princeton's name came up, the money had run out. Someday, when monies become available again, the intersection will be done the way it was planned, Sgt. Nini said, but the price tag will have increased proportionately.

When will that day come? Sgt. Nini has no idea. In the meantime, the days when motorists had to scurry across No. Harrison's four lanes of traffic at Valley are over.

TWO NAMED PRESIDENTS

From University. The oldest independent Catholic College in the United States and an experimental liberal arts college which enrolled its first freshmen in 1970 have both found new presidents from among the faculty and administration at Princeton University.

Dr. Robert W. Wickenheiser, 34, assistant professor of English and a Milton scholar as well as president of the Adult School, has been selected 21st president of Mt. St. Mary's College in Emmitsburg, Pa., effective July 15. Adele S. Simmons, 35, dean of student affairs at Princeton, was named president of Hampshire College, the small, experimental college in Amherst, Mass. Her appointment is effective July 1.

Dr. Wickenheiser is the second layman to hold the presidency of 169-year old Mt. St. Mary's and the first appointed with no prior affiliation to the College either as an alumnus or faculty member. He is also the first Mt. St. Mary's president to be selected as the result of a formal search procedure with a college-wide representative committee composed of trustees, administration, faculty, students and alumni. Some 155 candidates were considered.

Dr. Wickenheiser came to Princeton in 1970 as an assistant professor of English. This year he was named the John E. Annan preceptor by the University to pursue private research, study and writing. He is one of the youngest college presidents in the country and one of the few elected from the ranks of faculty rather than from the ranks of administration.

As third president of Hampshire, Dean Simmons will join a very small group of women who head co-educational colleges. As dean of student affairs, she is the highest ranking female administrator in Princeton's history, and she is the third female member of the Harvard University Board of Overseers. She will succeed Charles R. Longsworth who has been named president of

Off the Job, Township Chief Fred Porter Turns Into Chef Porter, Cooking Variety of Delicacies

Fred Porter had a problem. As a big man who always loved to eat deli-gourmet foods (...and desserts; he bakes his own pies) he found, he said, when he would break down to buy some he could only afford so much. "It was not enough."

But in addition to being the Township Chief of Police, Fred Porter is also resourceful.

"It dawned on me somebody has to have some idea how to do these things. I did a little research on my own to satiafy my own mind that I could equal the taste of deli food."

He bought a amoker and some wood chips and tracked down recipes, incorporating his own aeaaoning – he likes things hot -- and improvements. That was three years ago.

Today, he saya, "I find my recipes far more taatier than those I can buy – plus the aelf-gratification I receive from doing it myself."

Fred didn't stop with just deli food, however. In addition to pastrami and corned beef (two of his favorites whose recipes appear on this page) he cures and amokes his own herring and fish, makes his own lox...his own sausage...smokes turkeys and beef tongues and has branched off into Chinese cooking. Sitting at the kitchen table covered with cooking books he has gathered, he saya, "I'm into all this stuff, I make 'em all."

His friends supply him with fish. He smokes them some and smokes some for himself. A piece of herring he had cured and smoked was a little heavy on the seasoning but very good. He freezes them and eats them as snacks. For a spread he mashes smoked fish with hardboiled eggs and adds some mayonnaise. "It's delicious, he said."

Lox, Yes; Bagels, No. As for his own lox..."oh boy," exclaims Fred, his mouth just watering thinking about it. "It's so expensive that I don't even price it."

Whenever he wants some, he goes to the fish market and buys his own salmon. Then he cures it and smokes it for about an hour. "The Jewish people eat it on bagels, but I eat it just as it is. The man at the fish market told me he has never tasted anything like it."

"In general, I get a kick out of doing it. The amount I make never lasts, everybody wants a piece, and I end up with just a little, so I really do it for the thrill of doing it. I consider it one of my hobbies."

To make his own aausages – country, sweet and garlic – Fred grinds pork shoulders and other meats, seasons it with thyme, sage, fennel seed and salt and papper and stuffs the mixture into casings which he buys at the market. To get a recipe for frankfurters, he went to the market, obtained the label from the Loefflers' brand, went home and duplicated it.

His kitchen is well equipped with a slicer, grinder, utensils and overflowing with seasonings. The main thing, he says, is to have the necessary ingredients. "Whether American or foreign dishes, you must have the proper ingredients and proper seasonings. Most stores have them."

Curing and smoking can take a long time. For those who like smoked foods in general there are other ways, Fred explained, to get the same results. There are electric cooking-smokers which cook and smoke meat at the same time.

"YOU'LL NEVER HAVE ANY LEFT:" That is the opinion of Fred Porter, who says if you cook and amoke a maal in a smokar such as his electric Redi-Smok Bar-B-Cua you'll never have any laftovers. Smoked cooking is dalicious, he balieves, and he talls how he got started in it in an article this paga.

Essentially, they are nothing more than a pipe about three feet high and a foot in diameter with trays inside to hold the meat, the wood chips and catch drippings.

Want a smoked turkey? You can cook turkey and smoke it right there, ready to eat and it will have a smoked flavor, said Fred. Having a roast lamb and want a smoked flavor? Cook it in the oven as directed and then hang it in the smoker for the final hour. "You can do that with any meat," said Fred.

"I think smoking gives meat a delicious flavor. All I can say is yum, yum, yum. If you do it for your guests you'll never have any left."

"I love to see people eat, but when you talk about smoked foods, people tend to think in terms of "delicacy and gourmet." If you go to the store for smoked turkey you pay a pretty penny for it when in reality it is very simple for anyone to do these things themselves."

In a redi-smoker (see box) one can cook an entire meal at one time, according to Fred: meat, vegetables, potatoes, breads, even desserts such as sweet potato pie. And for

A Word About Smokers and Wood Chips

To smoke meats – or fowl – you need a smoker which is, essentially, nothing more than a closed box with an opening. You can build your own or make one out of an old refrigerator, says Fred. Or there are a number of commercial models.

He uses a portable, electric Outers Hickory Smoker (available from Sears) which can smoke up to 25 pounds of meat at one time. Its heating element warms up just enough to smoulder wood chips in a tray at the bottom.

Basically, there are two methods of smoking – the cold smoke and the hot smoke. In cold smoking, the heat source is at a distance. The temperature does not rise above 85 degrees. This method can take several days – or weeks – but food so prepared will last indefinitely, even when not refrigerated.

In hot smoking the food is smoked and cooked at the same time. An example would be Fred's electric Redi-Smok Bar-B-Cue (also available from Sears). It has a tray at the top for the food to be cooked, a tray in the middle to catch drippings and a heating element at the bottom to smoke chips. "You can cook a whole meal in there at once," says Fred, who compares it to crock pot cooking. It isn't a hot heat so allow yourself plenty of time.

For wood chips, Fred used Outers 100 percent pure pulverized Hickory (Sears again) which resembles coarse sand. Some prefer to go to lumber yards and get their own wood to chop up into chips, Fred said. The one basic rule to obey: do not use green wood for smoking.

Different wood will add various flavors. Hickory is one of the strong aromatic smoking woods; pecan is milder while oak is very mild. Other suitable woods are cherry, apple, peach, sassafras root or any native hardwood.

Fred Porter's Deli Pastrami

(Dry Curing)

4½ lbs. fresh beef brisket (thin end)
½ cup Kosher salt (coarse salt)
2 teaspoons sugar
2 teaspoons ground ginger
1 tablespoon whole coriander seeds
¼ cup coarse ground butcher pepper (coarse black pepper)
1 clove garlic, chopped
½ teaspoon saltpeter

Dry meat. Combine salt, sugar and saltpeter in mixing bowl. Separately, crush coriander seeds, add garlic and blend into rest of mixture. Rub mixture thoroughly over meat. Place in plastic bag and seal end. Refrigerate 7-8 days, turning bag over once every 24 hours.

Remove from plastic bag, strain off liquid and retain pepper and crushed coriander seeds. Wash meat thoroughly, dry, and press retained pepper and coriander seed into meat. Sprinkle with paprika. Hang in a cool place and dry for 24 hours. Small fan may be used to keep air circulating around meat while drying.

Place meat on open rack in oven with folded aluminum foil on oven bottom to catch drippings. Cook on low (under 250 degrees) slowly for 4-5 hours. Place in smoker and smoke for 2 hours. Cool – slice thin and steam. Serve on rye bread with mustard.

Deli Corned Beef

(Wet Curing)

5-6 lb. piece fresh corned beef
3 cups of Kosher salt
3 cloves garlic
20 whole peppercorns
2 bay leaves
½ teaspoon saltpeter or powdered ascorbic acid
7 quarts water

(Note: rule of thumb for proper amount of salt in brine for use in curing is water should be salty enough that a fresh egg will float on top.) Mix all ingredients in crock. Cover meat with cheese cloth. Let cure for 8-10 days in a cool place. Dry and let hang in a cool place (40-50 degrees) for 24 hours. Use small fan to circulate air around meat while hanging.

To cook, wash meat thoroughly, place in pot with water to cover. Season with 2 bay leaves, 1 teaspoon dry thyme, 1 clove garlic, 1 medium onion cut up, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard.

Simmer until done by observation and touch – approximately five hours. Let meat sit in broth till cool. Remove from broth, drain and press hard between two plates to squeeze juices out. Sprinkle with coarse black pepper and onion salt. Hang in smoker and smoke 1½ hours. Slice thin, pile high on sandwich.

those, like his wife, Helen, who says she loves everything Fred cooks "except his smoked stuff, which is good but a little too hot for me" – you don't have to use smoke chips. It's a low, slow heat, similar to a crock pot, said Fred.

"It's great for summer; you don't have to pay too much attention to it, just lift the lid once in a while. You can enjoy yourself and your guests and not have to flim-flam around in the kitchen all the time."

The Bean Disaster. Cooking, although he does it well, has not been an unalloyed success. Fred recalled one disaster when he was cooking a smoked turkey and Boston baked beans for his guests, former Township mayor Jim Floyd and his wife. It was a first for the beans.

He had purchased an earthenware crock pot for the beans and had cooked them all night and half the next day. "When it came time to eat, the beans were nice and brown – and hard as rocks. They never got soft."

It was quite embarassing. I even cracked my new pot. I had a guarantee that it was never supposed to crack but I guess I put so much stress on it trying to get those beans done, laughed Fred, that it cracked.

"Jim still kids me about that and, you know, to this day I've never tried that recipe again." The only thing that saved it from complete disaster was that he was able to return the pot and got his money back.

Fred's interest in food stems from his early years when he was growing up in Scranton, Pa.

There was a lot of cooking in the house, he recalled, and my father was a good cook. "I sort of followed in his steps."

It was a time, he said, when people had no refrigeration or just ice boxes. They cured their own meat and did their own canning. "People don't do that today; the markets do it.

"Those families are fortunate that have a member that still believes in doing their own canning. You're getting better tasting food and quality. It stands to reason that whatever you do yourself has to be better than what is done commercially -- and more economical.

"I always felt if someone else could do it, I could do it, too."

And he has. Bon appetit, Chef Porter.

Baird, a re-insurance broker composed of four differeot corporations, all of which declared bankruptcy in 1975. The two brothers inherited the two principal companies from their father, Charles Sr., in 1972 and moved the base of operation from New York to Morristown.

A re-insurance broker is used as a middleman between smaller insurance companies which wish to pool risks on larger policies with other companies, and receives a commission of between one and 10 percent. The Pritchards are said to have built up the companies they inherited into a financial empire with a cash flow of more than $100 million a year.

According to Robert J. DelTufo, director of the State Division of Criminal Justice, the brothers adopted a policy in which they delayed for up to several months the necessary forwarding of premium payments from insurers to re-insurers. Millions of dollars in such delayed payments were allegedly siphoned into the personal accounts of the brothers for business and personal expenses. The alleged scheme began to come apart in 1974 when a series of tornadoes in the middle west generated large claims.

William Pritchard, who is owner of Executive Answering Service, Inc. at 353 Nassau Street, has beeo charged with 5t counts of misappropriating $3.4 million from companies under his control aod with two counts of using the corporations for unlawful purposes. If convicted by a Morris County court, he could face up to 159 years' imprisonment and fines of $53,000.

He is being represented by Timothy Sheehan Jr., a Princeton attorney.

TO UNVEIL PLAN

For Windsor Park Needs. The results of a year-long study of park planning for West Windsor Township will be presented at the Township's courtroom at Village and Mill Roads on Thursday at 8:30 p.m. Presiding will be environmental commissioner Ronald Rogers, who chaired a joint committee of three recreation commissioners and three environmental commissioners which was formed in October 1975 to arrange for and coordinate the study.

The study itself was done by Rogers and Golden, Inc., of Philadelphia with funds from the State Environmental Grant Office. The purpose was "to define park needs at various population levels and the character of the park system," according to Commissioner Rogers. Everyone interested in West Windsor's development and recreational needs should attend.

SWEET THOUGHTS

From Shirley Ann Candyes.

The old-fashioned candy store where everything is made on the premises is all too fast disappearing. Not only are the pure ingredients expensive, but also the work itself is time-consuming – two factors that are hardly compatible with mass production.

Yet, a few confectioners still pursue their craft, and one such store is just a few miles away in Pennington. A delightful shop with an old fashioned appearance resembling something out of a childhood dream, Shirley Ann Candyes this week is celebrating its 45th anniversary.

Originally on Hamilton Avenue in Trenton, the business was started by Shirley Ann's father, Frank Zealen who, at the age of nine, was apprenticed to a German confectioner in Philadelphia. He obviously learned his trade well, because to this day the candies are based on his original recipes and the results are delicious.

Candy making is not something you can learn from a book as so much depends upon a feeling you develop over the years. Shirley Ann, however, was only three when her father opened his store and she literally "grew up in the business," learning everything from him. Her daughter, Andrea, did the same, and although Mr. Zealen is now deceased his daughter and granddaughter continue the family business as partners in Pennington.

Holidays, both large and small, are honored here with Shirley Ann's specialty – hand-decorated chocolate covered mints. For instance, right now there are shamrocks and pipes on these, but later on there will be ones for the Fourth of July, pumpkins for Halloween, Turkeys at Thanksgiving and many more at Christmas time.

THE EASTER BUNNY. Although this old papier mache rabbit may not be the real Easter bunny, he watches over Shirley Ann Candyes, a store that is responsible for filling many baskets each year. Standing with him here are the store's owners, Andrea (left) and Shirley Ann Batros.

They also do custom orders such as rosebuds or bells for weddings and last June they even did more than 400 tiger heads for the 1941 reunion class. While custom orders may cost more, the seasonal ones are $3.95 a pound.

Easter Bunny Works Here. Along with the "wearin' of the green," Easter candies have begun to fill the shelves, and this is where Shirley Ann Candyes is unbeatable. The hand-decorated eggs and molded bunnies are so magnificent that we even know of one child who calls this shop the Easter Bunny's factory.

The eggs are all shaped by hand and come in several flavors -- Mr. Zealen's original coconut cream, fruit and nut, butter cream, fudge, nougat, and peanut butter. They are all chocolate (milk or dark) covered with the exception of the nougat which is dipped in caramel and rolled in pecans.

They come in a half and a one-pound size which can be sliced for serving, and Shirley Ann Candyes will write a name on any of these eggs at no extra cost. A few flavors are also available in a smaller quarter pound size (no name here,) and the coconut cream even comes as a five-pound egg, approximately $1.75 to $17.50.

These eggs come decorated too with Easter flowers, rabbits, chicks and bows. Tiny bite-size ones cost only a quarter, but the larger sizes vary depending upon the amount of handwork.

While these decorated in colors are gorgeous, our very favorite egg is an all chocolate hollow one. It comes in two pieces like an empty box and the top is decorated with chocolate flowers and ribbons. These are truly enchanting, and they can be filled just like a basket with grass and smaller goodies. These were not yet priced when we visited, but they will be approximately $2.75 to $30 for the largest one when filled.

The solid bunnies and chicks are made from old German molds which are quite detailed. Shirley Ann explained that a good mold has deep indentations and thus produces a candy that will even show the lines of the fur. These range in size from two to 28 ounces and cost about 75 cents to $5 or $6.

Basket Fillers. While true chocolate lovers generally prefer the dark chocolate, at Easter time much of the work is for children and so is done in milk chocolate which they seem to like better. There is also a limited line of white chocolate eggs and rabbits for those with allergies or simply a preference.

There is also a wide choice of basket fillers including pastel crystal mints, foil-covered eggs, solid flat chocolate bunnies and chicks, two-ounce chocolate eggs, tiny butter cream animals in Easter colors (also perfect for trimming cupcakes or cookies,) and jelly beans.

Although most everything is made here, at Easter Shirley Ann and Adrea do buy a line of foil-covered chocolate novelties for variation and color in the baskets. They are imported (from Germany of course,) and they have been popular for years.

The jelly beans are also made elsewhere because Shirley Ann says, "It is a mess to make these." They are a soft pectin jelly with pure fruit flavors and very different from the supermarket kind. They are also more expensive at 60 cents for six ounces, but well worth it. In fact, Shirley Ann reported, "We will sell about 400 pounds of these and still run out." They also carry a spiced jelly bean if you prefer that.

You can wander around and fill your own basket, have them do it for you or buy one of the pre-done ones, which in keeping with the old-fashioned feeling here are the softly colored wooden kind.

Good Stereo Systems "On The Cheap."

If you've always wanted a real component music system, but never thought you could afford one, check out this sale-priced system with the Rotel 102 stereo receiver, Studio Design 26 loudspeakers and a BSR 2260BX automatic turntable.

BSR ROTEL Studio Design $199

The well-designed KLH Model 71 stereo receiver featured in this system is an excellent match for the KLH 100 loudspeakers. Together, they reproduce a considerable portion of the audio range with the kind of accuracy KLH is famous for. The turntable is the BSR 2260BX.

KLH BSR $269

If you're looking for an exceptional value in a moderately-priced system, be sure to check out this one with a great Technics 5060 stereo receiver, Studio Design 36 loudspeakers and Garrard's eminently capable 440M automatic turntable.

Technics Garrard Studio Design $329

Here's an all-brand-name system at a special sale price that makes it almost irresistible. Famous KLH 17V loudspeakers (available in real walnut veneer for only $20 more) are combined with a Harmon Kardon 330C stereo receiver and a high performance Philips GA427 belt-drive turntable.

KLH harman kardon Philips $399

ADVENT Ohm Philips $479

By the way, these candies are all fresh with no additives or preservatives. Therefore, because this is a small family business the hours before any major holiday are long. Not only is the store open seven days a week for the final two weeks but also each night Shirley Ann and Andrea spend more hours making candy and hand-decorating it.

Pick n' Choose. Naturally this month the emphasis is on Easter, but the usual selection is still available. Assorted chocolates can be packed anywhere from a half-pound to a five-pound box, and they can include anything you choose; $3.95 a pound.

There are creams, chewies, fruits and nuts in milk or dark chocolate. Shirley Ann feels that being able to select just what you waot is one of the most important things about their business. "This is not new. It's always been our way of doing business," she said. "But we do get some weird ones." For instance, each Christmas they sell a box of half chocolate covered nuts and half licorice.

Located at 36 South Main Street, Pennington, Sbirley Ann Candyes is opeo Tuesday through Saturday from 10 until 5:30. From March 27th through April 8, regular Monday hours and Sunday ones from 1 until 5 will be added.

The Proposed 1977-78 Budget

PRINCETON REGIONAL SCHOOLS

TO THE CITIZENS OF PRINCETON

Inflationary increases are anticipated to be greater than the budgetary limit (cap) set by the State. The maximum budgetary increase allowed to our district is 2.8 percent or $229,100 over 1976-77 expenditures. The proposed school budget represents the culmination of many months of effort by the Board and its administrators to maintain a quality educational program within the cap. In spite of continued efforts to reduce costs, some items such as energy expenses and insurance premiums have risen greatly. Cutbacks will occur to some extent in several areas, but with the continued dedication of our staff, our students will continue to achieve at high levels as in the past (see box on right). The Board will continue to maintain its favorable class size policy (20-25 overall, grades K-3; 25-30 overall, grades 4-12) and a high level of services for children with special educational needs.

Due to a change in the tax law, it is estimated that for 1977 the school levy will result in a tax increase of $52 in the Borough and a decrease in the Township of $45 for a home assessed at $50,000. Refund checks for the school district's unbudgeted State Aid will be mailed to taxpayers by the municipalities on or before May 1, 1977. We estimate that the refund to each Borough taxpayer will more than offset his/her 1977 school tax increase.

We urge citizens to review the detailed budget that is available in the Board of Education office and in the schools. By contacting the president of one of the Parent-Teacher Organizations, the budget may be borrowed overnight.

PRINCETON REGIONAL BOARD OF EDUCATION

In order to keep costs at a minimum, your Board of Education has decided to present budget information in the local newspapers and to prepare budget fact sheets for distribution in the schools and at the public library rather than mail a budget brochure to each citizen.

AGENCY SUED

Over Automobile Coverage. The Walter B. Howe Insurance Agency of 1 Palmer Square has been sued by a Princeton resident for alleged mismanagement of his account and for misleading him into thinking the $1 million excess liability he had requested had been arranged when actually he was only covered for $25,000.

Roman Smoluchowski of 27 Westcott Road, professor of solid state sciences at Princeton University, is the plaintiff in suit filed in Superior Court in Trenton asking the Howe agency to pay $150,000 damages from a January, 1975, lawsuit arising out of an accident involving his son Peter.

The complaint states that Mr. Smoluchowski had dealt with the Howe agency since 1962. In July and August, 1972, he says he asked the agency to obtain insurance for him that included coverage for liability up to $1 million. Mr. Smoluchowski charges that the Howe agency failed to make these arrangements and further failed to tell him that he did not have the coverage he had requested.

In November, 1972, Mr. Smoluchowski's son was involved in an automoblie accident in Cape Cod. A lawsuit was filed three years later by a victim of that accident, seeking $150,000 in damages. Mr. Smoluchowski further charges that the agency failed to notify him when the suit was filed.

The complaint also alleges that when the insurance company through which the auto liability was obtained notified him that his coverage was only $25,000, Mr. Smoluchowski was "assured repeatedly" by the Howe Agency not to worry because he was adequately covered.

Nick L. Carnevale, executive vice-president of Walter B. Howe, characterized a story on the suit in a Trenton newspaper as "grossly inaccurate, incomplete and unclear," and because the matter is in suit would not comment further. Mr. Smoluchowski, who also declined to comment, is being represented by William Stackpole of Smith, Cook, Lambert, and Miller, attorneys.

School Budget Backed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

It is important that Princeton citizens vote "YES" on the school budget.

Because of the state budget "cap", or limit, on local school spending, Princeton schools may spend only 5 percent more than they did last year. Since costs were contracted at 5.7 percent before the state ruling, the schools were forced to make staff and program cuts to meet the 5 percent limit for this year. Unless the budget is passed March 22, the outlook for the following year is even more bleak with the prospect of more and more cut backs in staff and programs affecting all our children.

Citizens should not confuse a "NO" vote on the budget with a vote of censure for the Board of Education. Only the children of Princeton will suffer from a budget defeat.

If people disagree with the Board of Education, they should select and elect candidates with whom they can agree. They should write letters and attend Board meetings to speak their views. (Attendance at School Board meetings of non-school connected people averages less than 10).

Princeton school children rate high on state tests, on SATs, on "prestige" college acceptances. To continue their above average education, we must all go to the polls and vote "YES" on March 22.

THOMAS F. EVANS
112 Sycamore Road

Heritage Destroyed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Mrs. Alma R. Field is to be commended for her thoughtful and hard-hitting letter in the Packet of March 2 and TOWN TOPICS of March 3, regarding the intention of Princeton University to destroy the William Street neighborhood. Every thought in Mrs. Field's letter needed to be expressed and I congratulate her for her courage in writing.

I would also recommend to readers the letter of 11-year-old Mia Nitchun in TOWN TOPICS of March 9. Miss Nitchun is mature and wise beyond her years and deserves to be listened to!

I strongly urge everyone who loves Princeton to join with Mrs. Field in her fight to save William Street neighborhood and her fight against the proposed DNA research which the laboratories to be built in place of the homes on William Street will house. Write your local papers, the University or telephone the latter.

It is indeed frightening to contemplate that the University is actually and actively consideriog the constructions of laboratories in the center of Princeton for the purpose of producing bio-hazardous material. I would urge that the University reconsider its plans for the Williams Street property and locate the laboratories on one of its many properties on the outskirts of Princeton away from the residential areas.

Such a plan would also remove from Princeton's streets, which are already overburdened with traffic and exhaust fumes, the added traffic that would be created by delivery trucks and workers' autos. At the same time a change in location would eliminate the need for the planned, pollution producing parking garage in the center of Princeton.

Far too much of Princeton's history and natural beauty have been wantonly destroyed in the past and it is my earnest hope that Princeton University will consider the plan outlined above for the sake of those of us who love Princeton and its future generations.

KAREN T. KNAEFLER
(Mrs. George C. Knaefler)

Move DNA Research Away.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The members of The Dogwood Garden Club of Princeton would like to go on record as being strongly opposed to the DNA research which Princeton University is planning for the Laboratories to be built in the Williams Street neigbborhood in the center of our town.

If these laboratories must be built, it is the club's opinion that the site should be changed to one of the University's many properties on the outskirts of Princeton away from residential areas.

The Club is also greatly concerned about the additional traffic and fumes that would further clog and pollute Princeton's streets and the pollution to the William Street area that the proposed parking garage would engender. Workers' cars and delivery trucks should be prohibited from the town's center should the University insist upon going ahead with present plans.

The club members urge the University to consider the future of Princeton town and its people and give serious consideration to its responsibilities for other lives and the welfare of all.

Members of the club are appalled by the destruction of the beautiful and irreplaceable trees on the site of the Yedlin housing at Ewing Street and Mt. Lucas Road! The site looks like a disaster area and the club members want to protest most strongly.

Why did not the Township officials learn this bitter lesson at the time the trees were destroyed prior to the construction of the Princeton Community Housing at Bunn Drive. That area also looked as if a disaster had struck!

The club members firmly believe that some legislation by Borough and Township is needed to prevent such devastation in the future!

MRS. EDWARD L. MCCALL

Board's Decision Protested.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is a copy of a letter we have written to Dr. Dietrich Meyerhofer and other members of the Princeton Regional School Board of Education:

The Central Jersey Branch of The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People wishes to register its serious complaint to the Board of Education for its failure in considering Acting Superintendent Dr. Edith V. Francis as permanent superintendent.

In view of the fact that there has been no criticism from the Board of Education, the administration, the staff, and the Princeton community of her performance during the year as Acting Superintendent; therefore, we believe it is incumbent upon the Board of Education to explain why she is not now being considered for the permanent position of superintendent.

Further, the Central Jersey Branch of the NAACP requests information and criteria used in your selection procedure for superintendent of Princeton Regional Schools. We feel that it is important that the person selected be knowledgeable and familiar with the educational curriculum and needs of all the children in the district.

However, we feel that she is most qualified for the position. She knows the Princeton school system, understands curriculum and needs. She is a dedicated, well-informed educator who has served the system for the past eight

'GUARANTEE' INVALID

In School's Advertising. Any school that uses the word "guarantee" in promising a student he will learn anything is risking exclusion from the Consumer Bureau Register, according to a group of the Bureau's Consumer Volunteer Panelists. A case involving a speed reading school was discussed at a recent luncheon meeting of the Consumer Bureau Volunteer Panel.

A dissatisfied student reported that he did not improve his reading speed 40 percent the way the school "guaranteed" he would after completion of their course. The school insisted that the student did improve by the guaranteed percentage, and had test results to "prove" it.

The Panel decided that the word "guarantee" used in this

PEOPLE
In The News

Joe Brown, the sculptor and lecturer in Princeton University's visual arts program who lives at 31 Edwards Place, will receive one of Temple University's top three awards Sunday at Founder's Day ceremonies in Philadelphia on Sunday, which is coincidentally his 68th birthday. Mr. Brown will receive the Order of the Owl Award, one that honors Temple alumni who have attained "a respected position in their community, profession or business life and have in this manner brought honor to the University."

Two 15½-foot bronze sculptures by Mr. Brown of football and baseball players in action, a kicker and a batter, grace the perimeter of Temple's Veterans Stadium. Two more, a football player about to make a tackle and a baseball player sliding into second with a shortstop about to try the tag, are yet to come.

Mr. Brown, who played football and was captain of Temple's boxing team as an undergraduate, became a professional artist by accident. When he graduated from Temple in 1931, with a bachelor's degree in education, he was an unemployed physical education major. If times had been better, he probably would have found a coaching job.

As it was, he started posing for students at the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts. When he found that their figures of him didn't resemble him, he started sculpting himself. His work was good enough to place in the school's annual exhibit and later came to the attention of Dr. R. Tait McKenzie, a noted physician and sculptor.

Mr. Brown served a seven-year apprenticeship to Dr. McKenzie and joined the Princeton University staff as boxing coach in 1937. He began teaching a sculpture course in 1939, and has been teaching here ever since.

Mrs. Robin "Bobbi" Bontempo, a former Princeton resident, was elected secretary-treasurer of The Reynolds Circle, a nation-wide organization dedicated to a study of science fiction, in particular, the works of author Mack Reynolds. Mrs. Bontempo, the former Miss Robin Kluge, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kluge of 42 Monroe Road. She is a mathematics major at Kean College of New Jersey in Union.

Richard L. Wines of 5 East Shore Drive, senior vice president-finance and secretary of the United New Jersey Banks, has been given an interim assignment to work in the Commercial Banking Division of United Jersey Bank, Hackensack, and the bank holding company's data processing division as part of a management training program. He continues his duties as secretary to the board.

A birthday celebration took place in New York's Alice Tully Hall when the Juilliard Orchestra gave the premiere New York performance of the Symphony No. 6 by Roger Sessions, 63 Stanworth Drive, William Conant Shubael Professor of Music Emeritus at Princeton University. The performance was one of two planned by Juilliard Music School, where Prof. Sessions taught composition for 12 years, in honor of the composer's 80th birthday. A program March 22 in the Juilliard Theater will be devoted exclusively to the composer's vocal, chamber and solo music.

The Sixth Symphony was written to celebrate the 300th anniversary of New Jersey, and it had its world premiere in 1966 when it was played by the New Jersey Symphony under the direction of Kenneth Schermerhorn. In reviewing last week's performance, the New York Times reviewer wrote of the 18-minute, three-movement work that it is "characteristic in its high degree of activity and its beautiful workmanship."

Coast Guard Quartermaster Third Class James M. Blakeley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Blakely of Skillman, has departed for an extended deployment in the Caribbean Sea, serving as a crewmember aboard the Coast Guard cutter Hamilton, homeported in Boston. The Hamilton's primary mission will be law enforcement, working with shore units and aerial patrols to locate and board vessels suspected of trafficking in narcotics. Mr. Blakely joined the Coast Guard in September, 1974.

John O'Grady, 76 Sycamore Road, vice president-marketing of Wenczel Tile Company, Trenton, has received a Tile Council of America award for his contributions to the ceramic tile industry's promotional efforts during 1976.

Leon N. Costa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas L. Costa of 28 Maple Street and a 1978 graduate of Princeton University, has been granted membership in the William Beaumont Medical Society, an honorary medical student society at The George Washington University Medical School. The Society is devoted to the stimulation of interest in, and the performance of, medical research, and membership is based on the submission of an abstract of original research in the life sciences.

Mr. Costa's research was performed during his junior and senior years at Princeton under Dr. Arnold J. Levine of the department of biochemical sciences and involved enzyme analysis of mouse tumor cells. He is presently conducting research in the bilchemical nature of stuttering and stammering, under a grant from the Nathanial J. Epstein Foundation.

Eight area residents have been awarded honors for academic excellence during the fall term at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, N.Y. They are Katharine Bissell, '77, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy W. Mr. Stewart is president of Princeton Bank and Trust Company and Mr. Moulthrop works at Educational Testing Service.

How Princeton Students Rate in State Achievement Tests

School districts–including Princeton–shy away from comparing themselves with each other, and the state discourages the practice. But it's about the only way to see how Princeton Regional Schools stand, next to their neighbors in New Jersey

This table shows the percentage of students who received scores of 65 percent or higher on state-wide achievement tests given last fall.

CHAIRMAN NAMED

For United Fund Drive. James Stewart, III, President and Chief Executive Officer of Princeton Bank and Trust Company, will direct the 1977 United Fund-Red Cross Campaign, it was announced this week by Mrs. Virginia B. Selden, PAUCF President.

Mr. Stewart, a resident of Skillman, came here in 1975 from the Girard Trust Bank in Philadelphia where he had served in various capactities for 20 years, the latest as senior vice-president in the corporate and commercial banking department. No newcomer to United Fund work, he participated in several campaigns in Philadelphia United Fund's Employee and Special Gifts Divisions.

He plans to spend the next month in recruiting his associate chairmen and also in visiting some of the 19 beneficiary agencies of the Fund. Included among these are the Boy and Girl Scouts, the Red Cross, YMCA, YWCA, Retarded Citizen's Association, Family Service, Youth Center, Day Care Centers and several others.

The Budget Committee of the United Fund, composed of some 40 volunteers, will shortly begin its work. Agencies have been asked to submit 1978 budget requests and in April and May this committee will meet with each agency to review its financial picture and needs. In June, at the United Fund board meeting, the committee will present its recommendations and the 1977 campaign goal will be established.

COLLOQUIUM PLANNED

On Health Services. "New Directions in Community Health" is the title of an all-day colloquium being sponsored by the Council of Community Services on Saturday, April 16, on the Princeton University campus. The registration deadline is April 6.

Dorothy Schoch, chairman of the colloquium planning committee, cites it as "an attempt to assess our present status in community health and evaluate our priorities for future activities." The Council urges all those interested in health care or providing services of this nature to attend.

Members of the planning committee are Mrs. Ansley Coale, chairman of the Health Committee for the Council; Dan de Francesco, Health Officer for Lawrence and East Windsor Townships; Dr. Charles R. Ream, The Medical Center at Princeton; William K. Selden, Borough Council member; Leslie L. Vivian, Jr., director of the Office of Community and Regional Affairs, Princeton University; and Janet Pearson, executive director, Council of Community Services.

Featured as the morning keynote speaker will be R. Morton Darrow, Vice-President for Public Affairs of the Prudential Insurance Company. Mr. Darrow will discuss the "Impact of the Future."

Colloquium participants will then divide into six discussion groups to explore specific health topics. Reconvening after lunch, the general assembly will develop ideas begun in the discussion groups, addressing questions to a panel of area health professionals moderated by Mrs. Schoch.

Registration forms will appear in the Communicator, the newsletter of the Council of Community Services, and will also be available at the Council office, 221 Witherspoon Street, or by calling 924-5865. The registration fee, which includes the cost of lunch, is $5 and $4 for students and those over 65.

RENT COMING DUE

Ordinance Expires Aug. 1 Like some uneasy tenant with a landlord breathing down his neck, Borough Council members and Mayor Robert W. Cawley have started detail work on possible revision of the Borough's rent-levelling ordinance, which expires August 1.

What has been the effect of the ordinance on the Borough over the two years it has been in operation? Council members will ask.

They would like to know whether the tax assessor has had any requests for revaluation because of low rents and the impossibility of capital improvements.

They want to know whether the number of rental units has declined since the ordinance became effective. Have landlords sold their houses rather than comply? Exactly how many units are there in the Borough and under what ownership are they?

Council members will study other communities' rent ordinances and will try to find out whether they work, and will also examine the "truth in renting" law. In addition, they will ask tenants and landlords what they think.

No deadline has been set for these reports, but Council wants to act well ahead of August 1.

BRUSH FIRE ERUPTS

Behind Butler Housing. A general alarm was sounded but later cancelled for a large brush fire that erupted last Wednesday afternoon behind Halsey Avenue at the rear of the University's Butler-tract housing.

Chief Frederick Porter reported that the fire was extinguished in 15 minutes by two fire trucks at the scene. It was investigated by Ptl. David Cromwell.

Two sixth-grade students at John Witherspoon School, Tom Morell, 10 Nowe Circle, and John Schnatterly, 179 Riverside Drive, discovered the blaze and called police.

They reported finding a smouldering can of lighter fluid at the site. The youths estimated some 40 yards of brush were blackened by the flames.

$5.7 MILLION BUDGET

For West Windsor Schools. The West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School Board adopted a 1977-78 school budget of $5,716,409.42 at a special public hearing. The new budget has a total current expense of $4,867,330.38, capital outlay allocation of $18,370 and debt service of $830,709.04.

To these amounts the school board will apply $710,486 in state aid, $9,075 in tuition, $49,591 in special federal and-or state sponsored programs, $30,000 in miscellaneous revenues and $44,314 of free balance, thus reducing the amount to be raised by local taxes to $4,872,943.42.

It is anticipated that the school taxes in West Windsor will increase six cents from $2.96 to $3.02 per $100 of assessed valuation. It is also projected that the school tax in Plainsboro will decrease 59 cents from $1.62 to $1.03.

The prime reason for the decrease in Plainsboro is due to the recent reevaluation of property. The result of all of this is that the owner of a home with a market value of $40,000 in both communities will pay an increase of $14 in school tax.

CANDIDATE TO SPEAK

At West Windsor High School. Rep. James J. Florio (D 1st-N.J.) will address the West Windsor-Plainsboro High School during a general assembly Friday at 9:45. He will discuss the function of government and his role as legislator.

Rep. Florio has just announced his candidacy for New Jersey governor. He is the sixth Democrat to join the race.

Business in Princeton

case does not conform to Consumer Bureau's published standards of responsible consumer service, and recommended to the school that it discontinue their use of the word "guarantee" in its advertising. It is standard Consumer Bureau policy to drop and bar from the Register any business firm that does not comply with Panel recommendations.

On the other hand, consumers were cautioned that when they buy products with a manufacturer's warranty instead of a local retailer's guarantee, they may have to wade through red tape to get defective equipment repaired or replaced.

This point was illustrated by a case in which a consumer was unable to get a tape recorder repaired by an authorized service representative of the manufacturer. Although the tape recorder was originally purchased at a local discount store, the warranty obligates only the manufacturer to make repairs through their local service agency.

After waiting three weeks without receiving proper authorization from the manufacturer, the service repair station suggested that the disgruntled consumer take the recorder elsewhere for repair. The Consumer Volunteer Panel decided to advise the consumer that some manufacturers maintain a better warranty service than others, and that in future shopping it would be wise to compare warranty service while comparing price.

"Deal With Those You Know." Commenting on this decision, Joseph Boyd, Consumer Bureau President, said, "Very often the guarantee of a responsible local business firm is far more useful to the consumer than the warranty of a distant manufacturing firm, even when that manufacturer has an official local repair service. As we often remind consumers, responsible local business people are usually your best consumer protection."

Consumer Bureau, a Princeton-based non-profit consumer organization run by consumers, maintains a Register of local businesses who have been recommended to the Bureau by their own satisfied customers. The Bureau also maintains a free investigation and mediation service for handling legitimate consumer complaints involving local firms. Consumers and business people can get Register information and assistance by calling 924-0338 collect any time of day or night. For further details, see pages 16 and 17 of this issue.

Mrs. Josephine Webb of Hightstown, Staff Mediator, presented the cases to a Panel quorum comprised of Mrs. Leon Lapidus (Panel Chairman) of Princeton, Mrs. Karen Brinton of Skillman, Mrs. Mary Ellen Tietjen of Belle Mead, Mrs. Wesley Walton of Princeton, and Mr. Joe DeBenedictis of Hightstown.

GRACE WILSON
President

Single Plant Opposed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Recently published reports on alternative sewer plans are certainly helpful to the understanding of this complex issue. However, since positions are now being taken, it is time for a consensus and one does not seem to exist.

After some exposure to the confusion of cost and benefit considerations, it seems to me that there is one cost that has not been quantified and which is perhaps the best point of departure. That cost includes the extensive damage from construction to the Stony Brook valley, the diminution in water flow in Stony Brook, and the adverse effects expected by water quality experts to occur in Carnegie Lake – all of which can be anticipated with the construction of a single plant system. In a region with few natural features providing relief from flat farm land and urbanization, the prospects of this damage are especially bothersome. In my view, to proceed with such a plan when an alternative is available requires a compelling and well documented case. This is no easy assignment but is one that seems not yet to bave been accomplished.

The engineers' report for the Sewer Authority is not reassuring. Its cost projections are not substantially different for the two systems considered; costs are based on extensions of 1973 data; and, apparently, the cost of right-of-way acquisitions for the single plant system was not included.

The possible loss of federal and state funding in the future to satisfy needs which might then exist may be a risk favoring the single plant system. However; the risk that should be of more concern is accelerated development made possible by the very existence of the single major trunk line.

I assume that we can rely upon opinions of counsel to the Sewer Authority that an agreement limiting access to the trunk line will hold up if challenged in court. But can't the parties rewrite the agreement to allow access, and won't that occur someday once land values can be greatly enhanced by simply tapping into the trunk line?

I hope we ordinary citizens are not too overwhelmed by the complex technical and financing considerations of this issue to provide the attention and support that might be helpful to those who will be deciding which system will be built. The forthcoming special Borough Council meeting on March 16th on this issue will be a good opportunity for all to listen and participate in this matter.

A LIVING SYMPHONY

Nature created the setting, architect and owners, the house; and together they composed an impressive symphony! Set on a stunning four acre hillside and set off by its many rugged boulders and towering trees, the house was designed to flow with the land. Large areas of bronze tinted glass make the most of breathtaking outlooks to south and west, small intimate balconies and protective "play decks" bring inside and outside together. Views are everywhere.

The house is spacious, with a living room whose ceiling soars almost three stories and six or seven bedrooms situated for the ultimate in privacy for parents and guests, yet intimate and warm in its use of materials, color and scale. Throughout the house - from the superb kitchen, tasteful baths, dressing rooms, two zone air conditioning, to the smallest detail - only the best has been used. An exciting house to look at, a marvelous home to live in, and a property we are proud to offer at

"FERNWOOD"

"Fougeres des Bois" (or something of the sort) should be the name of this enchanting house since it looks, inside and out, like a "maison" straight from the French countryside! White stucco, dark wood trim, rough plaster walls, exposed beams, nooks, crannies, arched doorway, etc., all contribute to the look. Entrance hall, big stepdown living room with fireplace, dining room with built-in china cupboards, panelled library with fireplace, charming kitchen with eating space, panelled family room, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, laundry/utility room make delightful family living space. Added practical assets are many, with the topper a highly rental studio apartment with separate entrance.

A screen fenced brick terrace overlooks a natural, rockstrewn 2½ acres and big woods, in which is a tree house designed, believe it or not, by Robert Hillier. Our NEW LIGHT LISTING est tres charmant!

"THE BISHOP'S HILL"

Though few people know this property by that name (thereby hangs a tale), a great many know it as one of the very oveliest - inside and out - in all of Princeton. The rooms - entrance hall, living room, dining room, studio/family room, master suite plus 3 more bedrooms, eat-in kitchen, and laundry - range from large to spacious. 4 baths, 3 fireplaces, beautiful decorative detail, and innumerable practical and aesthetic details make this house a happy combination of beauty and comfort, formal grace and country warmth. All this and more, together with a pretty swimming pool, rose garden and handsome terrace, on 3½ beautifully secluded acres offered at

On an average...

MORE THAN ONE SALE EVERY DAY!

(In every price range in every municipality in a 15-mile radius).

During the last 12 months, Henderson offices have sold, settled or contracted for the sale of at least one property every working day of the year.

That's why more house owners and more land owners have listed with us than any one else in the Princeton area...by far.

Think about it.

Then please call us and we'll be glad to show you how we do it. And we guarantee our service in writing.

Here is a magnificent early American style saltbox house on just over one acre of lawns and trees. Country living yet only minutes from Nassau Street. Just over a year old the house is in beautifully maintained condition. The central foyer opens to living and dining rooms, then to a very special room - a family room-country kitchen combination with cathedral ceiling balcony and early-American staircase. The fireplace in this unusual room is a magnificent Williamsburg replica. There is also an adjoining private study or bedroom complete with bath on this ground floor level. A steek, contemporary house is now under constructioo on a 4.5 acre lot with trees and a lovely view.

The cathedral ceilinged living room, dining room, kitchen and entry all open directly to this central skylighted garden.

Also on this level is a master bedroom with super dressing room and bath.

Curving steps go down between rocks and foliage to the children's level with three more bedrooms and a bath and a TV room which also opens to the garden. $125,000

WOODED! SPACIOUS! CUSTOM BUILT! FAMILY ORIENTED! FANTASTIC BUY! These words describe but don't do justice to this large six-bedroom, three-bath house on 1½ acres built by a well-known local builder for his own family. Now it is time to move to other things! So we are proud to list this house which features a recently redone eat-in kitchen with built-in barbeque, living room with fireplace, separate formal dining room, family room with fireplace, and a beautifully finished full basement. A fire alarm system, three-zone heating and roomy two-car garage round out this quality structure. And only 8 minutes from Nassau Street, in nearby Lawrence Township. $109,000

A VERY SPECIAL SOUTHERN COLONIAL OVERLOOKING THE BEDENS BROOK GOLF COURSE...in a nearby area of fine estates, here is an extraordinary custom-built house featuring gracious, spacious living room with fireplace, separate dining room, warm eat-in kitchen with exquisite cabinetry, family room with planked floor and floor-to-ceiling brick fireplace. Master bedroom suite with full bath, three other comfortable bedrooms and hall bath. Many extras...stereo and intercom built-in, central vacuum system, burglar and fire alarms with smoke detector, wine cellar with European door! Beautiful pastoral acreage 250 x 600 with pines, hollys $120,000

DEFINITIVE PRINCETON - Ambiance to the Nth - very near town center and all the reasons you want to live here. A large white colonial neither too old nor too new - surrounded by evergreens and varieties of established shrubs. A large comfortable living room (with a very striking fireplace), superb dining room (with a floor to ceiling bay) overlooking patio and pool, a butcher block countered contemporary kitchen, a panelled library, family room, exceptional closet space, beautiful upstairs hall, 5½ bedrooms...plus 3½ baths (one bedroom with complete bath is on the first floor for maid/in-law-guest). All wrapped up in an atmosphere of a more gracious time. Offered at $175,000

ONE OF PRINCETON'S most gracious houses...attributed to Steadman and moved from its original location to this lovely two acre lot with trees and formal gardens, not to mention more than twelve exquisite holly trees, near Carnegie Lake, on the West Windsor side. A modern wing was incorporated in the 40's that blends in beautifully with the original! Mouldings, panelling, mantels, floors, all seem the same vintage. The original two parlours form to make a warm family room with high ceilings and fireplace, the new wing provides a formal living room with elegant marble fireplace, fixtures and windows. A master bedroom suite with full bath and doors to the patio is nearby. Of course, a formal dining room, and super family kitchen completes the first floor. Bedrooms upstairs are in separate wings with two and a full bath in one part, and three with two baths in another. All new wiring, heating, of course, and a barn/garage completes this almost perfect picture for the family who wants to live in Princeton for the convenience and an older house for its charm and character. Offered at $210,000

Three Seeking Two Township School Board Seats Cite Reasons Favoring Their Candidacy–Election Will Take Place Tuesday

Three candidates for the two Township seats on the school board talked this week about their qualifications and in a sense, provided answers to the March 22 election-day question: "Why should I vote for you?"

All three–like their two Borough candidates--support the budget and would like to see it passed.

Joseph Blanc: "I could help de-fuse some of the explosive, emotional issues that come before the board. People have a right to be emotional, but the board ought not to make decisions on emotional bases."

Rosalind Frisch: "I see myself as a catalyst, listening to both community and staff and helping to bring them together. I'm very excited that the process is opening up and that a broader cross-section of citizens is becoming involved. Translating this into something concrete must be done, and I'd work hard for this."

Dietrich Meyerhofer: "I'm very aware of all aspects of the school system and have a very good grasp of them. In my three years on the board, I have proposed courses of action, pulled the board together to accomplish them. I feel I am very good at bringing various points of view on the board together."

Amplifying, Mrs. Frisch points to nine years' experience "observing the board in action." "I understand the way the board operates, the way citizens feel and I feel I can bring both together. Being an open sort of person, I'd encourage this, and I believe it will be helped by T. & E. with its strong emphasis on community participation."

Mrs. Frisch, a former teacher and administrator, urges the board to seek out more data and cites as an example, a report on comprehensive high schools---like Princeton's---assembled by the United States Office of Education.

"I oppose sabbaticals we can't afford," she declares, "why not investigate the two-week mini-sabbaticals in the Worcester, Massachusetts, system?"

Rosalind Frisch

Dr. Meyerhofer recalls, "I think I've helped the board accomplish things it really wanted, but might have let 'just sit around.' For example, the board wanted changes in the administration in early 1976, but couldn't crystalize its views. I got the board to look at a proposal and make a specific motion directing the superintendent to examine it.

Also, the Wednesday Program wouldn't have been changed if two or three of us hadn't said 'make a proposal!' based on our restrictions. I knew the board wanted this but had trouble formulating the request."

Promises, Promises. Joseph Blanc, who filed late as a candidate because he was distressed that no contest had developed, says, "We cannot promise everything to everybody any more. For many years, we're going to have a very difficult time deciding what to do with our dollars. Do we educate the very bright? Or provide remidial skills for kids who are not very bright?"

"These choices must be made clearly. The board must know what the community thinks about them, and if it acts contrary to the citizens' wishes, to know that it is doing so. I want to evoke clarity."

What do candidates hear from citizens, campaigning around the Township?

"People want a strong, basic skills foundation for their kids," Mrs. Frisch has found. "They think the schools are trying to do too much and end up doing too little. They ask what you do about an unproductive staff. I believe we need on-going evaluation of programs, I believe we need citizens advisory committees to the board--this would bring in future board members, leaders."

"People aren't really sure the schools are doing as good a job as they should, given the money available," Dr. Meyerhofer finds. "There are no easy answers, but we can get more answers: we can look at our testing, see what happens to people after they leave school and relate these things to what we're trying to do. An annual Superintendent's report would be helpful."

Dr. Blanc hears that people are worried about accountability, and feel there isn't much they can do about any problems.

"They don't so much feel that taxes are too high, as that they are too high to no good purpose. 'What's happening to our money!' is the underlying feeling of almost everyone I speak to."

Dr. Meyerhofer says that

I FEEL A SONG COMING ON....It's usually that way with Roo Brown, musical director of Inn Cabaret and one of its singing stars. All the old Cabaret favorites–and some newcomers–will be ready this Friday for a new three-Friday stand at the Nassau Inn.

News Of The THEATRES

CABARET BACK

Three More Weeks. Missed them? Of course! Dark for a week because of the Nassau Inn's schedule, Inn Cabaret will be back for three more Fridays starting this one, with the usual pair of performances--8:30 and 10:30 p.m.–in the Prince William Room of the Nass.

This Friday, twins Michael and Johnnie Hill, joined by their brother Billy and James Scudder, will be on the bill along with old favorites.

Reservations are advised and may be made Monday through Friday at 924-3727. Bar service is available throughout the show.

This week and on April 1, Don Boroson will be accompanist. Peter Wright will be at the piano March 25. Dan Berkowitz is director, Roo Brown is musical director and Joan Morton Lucas is choreographer.

NEXT: COWARD

"Design for Living." Noel Coward's classic of the 1930s, "Design for Living," will be the final offering of the season for McCarter Theatre, opening on Thursday, March 31 at 7:30 p.m.

The triangle in "Design for Living" is one of Coward's finest groupings of brilliant and brittle sophisticates. "Gilda," "Otto" and "Leo" handle their triangular love-affair with light hearts and barbed tongues, and above all, a sense of style.

Stephen Porter will direct. He has three British actors in his principal roles, all of whom are familiar to many American theatre-goers.

Meg Wynn Owen, the Gilda, is best known for her portrayal of Hazel Bellamy in the TV series, "Upstairs, Downstairs." Michael Allinson, who will be Leo, starred on Broadway in "Angel Street" and replaced Rex Harrison both in "My Fair Lady" and "In Praise of Love." Patrick Horgan, the third member of the triangle, has been on Broadway in "Crown Matrimonial." Daytime television watchers have seen him in "The Doctors" and "The Edge of Night." Mr. Allinson has been on daytime TV in "Love of Life."

THARP!

And Her 12. Twyla Tharp, the choreographer who has been called "the hottest property in the dance world today," will bring a company of 12 dancers when she comes to McCarter for her first Princeton appearance -- Tuesday, April 12 at 8 p.m.

Dancers scheduled to come with her include names most often associated with her work: Rose Marie Wright, Kenneth Rinker, Tom Rawe, Sara Rudner, Shelley Washington and Jennifer Way.

In 1973, after years of creating a repertory for her own company, Tharp began choreographing for other companies, such as the Joffrey and Ballet Theatre. The first of these, "Deuce Coupe I," mixed members of her own group with dancers of the Joffrey, dancing to the music of the Beach Boys.

Last fall, she created an ice dance for Olympic gold medallist John Curry, which he performed at Madison Square Garden as part of the Superskates program.

AVERAGE WHITE

In Dillon Gym. Soul, rhythm, rock and blues, in combination, feature The Average White Band, due for their first Princeton appearance Friday, April 29, at 8 in Dillon Gym. McCarter Theatre is the sponsor, and tickets are on sale in the theatre's box-office.

All members of the Average White are from England and Scotland, but the group's fame and fortune have come through American audiences

"The important thing about Miss Tharp is that she has a gift with steps the way some people have a gift with words. She can make a wriggle into a gesture and a gesture into a statement. She goes with the music like a champion swimmer in water—it is her element."

THEATRE IN MINIATURE: Toy theatres were favorite cut-out toys of 19th-century English children–Robert Louis Stevenson used to play with them–and a collection of eight set stages, 143 prints and 10 booklets is now on view in the Theatre Collection, Firestone Library (second floor, 1:30-5, Mon.-Fri.) This scene, from "Uncle Tom's Cabin," has a stage 14 inches across and 16 inches high, with figures a scant three inches. "Penny plain" sets were colored by children themselves, "twopance colored" were ready-made. The touring exhibit comes from several theatre collections and is endowed by the Youth grants in the Humanities Program of the National Endowment for the Humanities. (Bob Biele Photo)

over the past five years. Records include "Pick Up the Pieces," "Cut the Cake," "Soul Searching" and their latest, "Person to Person."

STARTING AT AGE 4.....

With Creative Theatre. Four-year-olds, acting out their versions of favorite stories in Creative Theatre's "Idea Workshop," usually cast the teacher -- Joan Robinson -- as a baby or an uncle.

In Idea Workshops for kindergarten through third grade, children improvise, explore the world of the senses, act out stories, and blend movement, sound and art into their creative drama.

Creative Theatre Unlimited is about to start its spring term -- March 28 -- and registration is now in progress at the studio in Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, Princeton (924-3489 between 10 a.m. and 1, week-days.)

Sixth, seventh and eighth graders go on jungle trips seeking buried treasure, land on Ellis Island as their ancestors did a century ago, discover that hands can create imaginary walls..... In the advanced creative drama and theatre class, they learn enough about theatre to mount a production, under the guidance of instructor Pam Hoffman.

High school students, in their Theatre Workshop with instructor Francia White, develop drama skills through theatre games, improvisation and exercises based on LeCoq and Alexander techniques.

Film-making, for sixth grade and up, explores animation, documentary and scripted film and editing techniques for regular 8mm, super 7mm and 16mm film.

In two new classes for adults and advanced high-school students, Honora Neumann will describe modern approaches to various kinds of acting techniques through improvisation and scene study, and, in an advanced workshop, concentrate on the individual actor.

Scholarships, full and partial, are available for children's classes through the Princeton Youth Fund.

BARNES TO LECTURE

Will Speak Here Wednesday. Clive Barnes, drama and dance critic of the New York Times, will deliver a public lecture at Princeton University this Wednesday. Mr. Barnes will speak on "The Plight of the Theatre" at 8:30 p.m. in McCosh 10. Admission is free.

News of the Theatres

The former London Times dance critic, Mr. Barnes joined the New York Times in that capacity in 1965 and added the drama responsibilities in 1967. He also does drama criticism for radio station WQXR and has been an adjunct associate professor of journalism at New York University since 1968.

The lecture by the 49-year-old Briton is the first in a series which will examine "The State of the Arts - The Performing Arts."

IT'S SUMMER!

Intime Makes Plans. A full season of plays, films, cabaret entertainment, children's theatre and a star-spangled fund drive are all in the playbill for Summer Intime, as its directors plan for their tenth anniversary.

The fund drive is needed, says Daniel Berkowitz, chairman of the board, so that Intime can be sure of having enough money in the bank "in case." At the end of last summer's season, Intime bought new seats from Lincoln Center at about $3,000, which drew down the level in the reserves. Also, the cost of everything from light bulbs to grease-paint has zoomed.

The drive will begin later this spring, Mr. Berkowitz has announced. He also said that Geoff Peterson, a founder of Summer Intime, first chairman of the board and now head of the fund drive, is planning things like "Take a Seat at Intime," which would offer patrons the chance to "buy" one of the new seats and have a name plaque affixed.

Other ideas are welcome, and should be communicated to Mr. Berkowitz, Summer Intime, Murray Theatre, Princeton, N.J.

In addition to Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Peterson, members of the Summer Intime board are Halcyone Bohen, associate dean of student affairs at Princeton University; Howard Ende, assistant University counsel; Anne S. Ford, former general manager of McCarter and now business manager of Inn Cabaret; William McCleery, lecturer in playwriting at the University, editor of "University" magazine and TOWN TOPICS drama critic, and former Summer Intime administrators Richard Ferrugio, Kimberly Myers, John C. Vennema and Richard B. Williams.

DRAMA AT RIDER

Princetonians In Cast. "Suddenly Last Summer," Tennessee Williams' smoldering melodrama of purity and corruption, will be staged by the Rider Theatre players nightly through Saturday.

Directed by Dr. Rosary O'Neill, a New Orleans native who has been teaching and directing at Rider College for five years, the production will be presented at 8 p.m. in the Rider Fine Arts Studio Theatre. All performances will be open to the public.

Featured in the role of Mrs. Venable will be Sallie Brophy of Princeton, lecturer in theatre at Rider. Others in the cast include Deborah Bellow and John Wible also of Princeton.

Tickets at $3 per person may be purchased at the door.

Auditions Scheduled

Auditions for the Summer Intime company, which will play once again in Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus, will be held Monday and Tuesday, March 28 and 29.

Interested actors are invited to send a picture and resume to Geoffrey Rich, Summer Intime, Murray Theatre, Princeton. You will be notified of an audition time.

Mr. Rich, a junior at Princeton, has been appointed producer for Summer Intime this year, with Clayton Platt as associate.

Violinist Nadien Dazzles McCarter Audience

Violinist David Nadien dazzled the audience at McCarter Theatre Monday evening, March 14. Called in to replace Ms. Aki, he performed with incredible bravura. Each work featured different facets of his abundant technique.

The works which framed the program were showpieces.

The last two, "Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso" by Saint Saens and "Scherzo Tarantelle" by Wienawsky are showcases for the virtuoso violinist. They do not make great interpretive demands, but they do require complete control over the instrument and the power to move at whirling-dervish tempo.

The three inner pieces were all major works. The most striking performance was that of the "Chaconne in D Minor for Solo Violin" from J.S. Bach's "Partita No. 2" Nadien clearly projected the intricately webbed harmonic structure by his changes in tone colour, tempo and dynamics. He created an illusion of an instrumental consort for this polyphonic melody. The result was extraordinary.

The performance of Brahm's "Sonata for Violin and Piano in D Minor" was slightly less satisfying. pianist Jonathan Feldman was not nearly as strong a performer as Nadien and there were spots in the Brahms where his playing marred the music.

There were some fine moments, especially in the last movement where the piece seems to get carried away with itself and dances at an accelerating pace.

Betthoven's "Sonata in A Major Opus 47," known as the "Kreutzer Sonata," was the most unusual piece on the program. tt opens with slow chordal movement intoned by the solo violin. After the piano and violin exchange responses to the opening material, they move into completely different territory. The first movement proceeds by fits and starts before settling down into a whirlwind tempo. The "Andante con Variazioni" and the "Finale: Presto" colourfully came to life.

Nadien is a violinist who is capable of both sensitive interpretation and infinite technical prowess. His appearance on the Princeton University Concert Series was a delight.

CHOIR TO BENEFIT

From Middle East Event. A festival of dance, music, food, fashion and crafts will be featured at a benefit sponsored by the choir of the Unitarian Church Sunday, March 27, at 6:30 at the church on Cherry Hill Road and Route 206.

Eddie Kochak of New York City will perform with members of his orchestra. The group includes an oud (a Middle East stringed instrument), drums, flute and violin. Mr. Kochak is music consultant for Arabesque magazine and is presently rescoring his fifth volume for "Strictly Belly Dancing."

The main dancer will be Deshara, an East Windsor resident who is a member of the Unitarian choir. A specialist in Persian and Bedoin dance styles, she will also present an ensemble of ten students in a "danse Orientale." Another dancer, Zahra of New York City, will present a veil dance, as well as a costume display with local models and a caftan boutique.

Other dancers will include Mara, Larah, Shoshanna, Zarefah and Arena. Arabic, Turkish, Israeli, Bedoin, Greek and Egyptian dance styles will be performed. Princeton guitarist Dominick Zullo will demonstrate Moorish influence in Spanish music with his drummer, Robert Ragoonath.

Myrna Ahmed will cater a supper snack including tahini and pita, cheese borek, baklava, marinated eggplant and stuffed grape leaves. Boutique sales of quality Middle Eastern folk art, including small oriental rugs, amber jewelry and pottery will be available from Mrs. Marion Kelleher and Mrs. Pearl Seligman, partners. Mr. Kochak's records will also be on sale.

The evening will conclude with an invitation for audience participation. Tickets at $7 may be obtained at Hinkson's or by phoning choir members at 921-6612 or 924-6633. Laura Hayes, music director of the Unitarian Church, is coordinating the festival.

HARPIST HERE SUNDAY

In Trinity - All Saints' Series. Osian Ellis, British harpist, will appear in a solo recital at All Saints' Church, Van Dyke Road, on Sunday at 8 p.m.

Works of Handel, Parry and Faure will begin the program, which Mr. Ellis will conclude by singing and playing a group of songs of his native Wales. Called "The most eloquent harpist around today," he is known as a concert artist and for his many recordings which have won him numerous awards such as the Grand Prix du Disque. Many new works have been composed for him, the latest being the Quintet for Harp and Strings by Gian Carlo Menotti which he premiered this week at Lincoln Center.

Tickets for this concert, eighth in the Trinity-All Saints' Series, may be reserved by calling the offices of All Saints' Church, 921-2420, or Trinity Church, 924-2277. The cost is $2, $1 for students and senior citizens. Any tickets remaining will be available at the door.

UNDERSEA LIFE SHOWN

In Trenton Naturalist Film. "Four Fathom World" is the title of the final Audubon Wildlife Film to be presented by the Trenton Naturalist Club Monday at 8 in the Kirby Arts Center of the Lawrenceville School. Harry Pederson, photographer of the undersea production, will be on hand to narrate his own film.

The relatively sheltered lagoons that lie back of the main reefs fringing the Bahama Islands are the location of this film. Trunk fish, hogfish, jawfish, baby green turtles, a flock of squid, a hungry shark and a friendly octopus are some of the animals and fish shown. The film also examines the reactions of undersea creatures to their fellows and to humans.

Mr. Pederson was born on the plains of North Dakota but became fascinated with sea life from the time of World War II when he and his brother were employed at an aircraft factory in San Diego and spent all their spare time doing underwater photography in the waters off La Jolla. The two then spent summers in the Bahamas where they supplied footage for the film version of Rachel Carson's "The Sea Around Us" and a number of other films.

Later they photographed documentary material for the Walt Disney Productions. Mr. Pederson's credits also includes footage for films such as "Hunters of the Deep," "The Animal World" and "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

LAWRENCEVILLE

Bound for Glory. The early career of the legendary folk singer and composer Woody Guthrie provides the core of this evocative tapestry of the west during the Depression. David Carradine, who does all his own singing and guitar work, is outstanding as Guthrie.

"Bound for Glory" is a very special kind of achievement; a screen biography that tells aa much about a nation's people and an unparalleled era as it does about Guthrie, a social activist as well as seminal folksinger. Directed by Hal Ashby, the film is a long (140 minutes) richly detailed tapestry that possibly represents the warmest – and most credible – screen portrayal of American populism since "The Grapes of Wrath." A probable Oscar-contender on several counts.

Mendelssohn, Bruckner and Durufle. Mrs. Parrella will also play Durufle's Variations on "Veni Creator" Opus 4.

The 80-voice choir was chosen to perform for the Festival of Three Cities, held in the summer of 1975 in Vienna, Budapest and Prague. The choir is noted for its work with composers, such as Frank Lewin in the premier of "Mass for the Dead," Persichetti in "Mass for Mixed Voices," and Maurice Durufle, "Requiem."

Admission is by donation of $2.50 at the door. All proceeds will benefit the series, now in its ninth year, of Bach church cantatas which are presented in the setting of the Lutheran Vespers Service weekly throughout the fall and winter.

Reservations may be made by writing Mrs. Ralph J. Belford, The North Road.

Brown University's continuing college program will sponsor a day-long seminar on "Southern Africa: What Price Independence?" for New Jersey and Philadelphia area alumni and the general public. BUTTONS ON VIEW

In Cranbury Museum. Old buttons are on display at the Museum of the Cranbury Historical and Preservation Society through April.

Included in the collection are enameis, Navajo Indian silver buttons, lithographs, paste buttons with various materials as well as picture buttons, black glass buttons witb a bird design and vegetable ivory buttons.

The picture buttons are metal embossed by stamping and came into vogue in the late 1860s. The black glass buttons, all about 1850, were chosen by Queen Victoria for personal wear and thereafter remained always in good taste and correct for all times. The vegetable ivory buttons, made from the fruit of a species of palm tree, are also a part of button history although not as valuable or as beautiful as many other buttons.

In addition, the Museum is exhibiting a collection of lovely copper lustre pitchers. This collection of over 25 pieces, known as the Myrtle Shaleen Dempsey Collection, has been made available to the Museum by Edmund Dempsey of Rossmoor and will be on display for an extended period of time. The Museum, located at 4 Park Place, is open on Saturdays and Sundays, from 2 to 5.

PHOTOGRAPHY SHOW SET

By PAA. Photography has been added to the Princeton Art Association's roster of juried art exhibitions. A $100 Best-in-show award has been established by E.R. Squibb and Sons, Inc. for the first annual Juried Photography Show, to be held at McCarter Theater from April 3 to May 9.

The competition is open to all photographers, with dates for receiving entries set for Friday and Saturday, March 25 and 26, from 10 to 1 at the PAA studios, Rosedale Road.

The show will be judged by photographer and printmaker Naomi Savage. A Princeton resident, Ms. Savage is the niece and protogee of Man Ray, the wife of sculptor David Savage.

Work eligible includes black and white and color photographs, and each artist may submit three entries, framed or otherwise mounted for hanging. The fee is $4 per entry for non-members, and $3 for one, $5.50 for two, and $8 for three entries for PAA members and studeots. Photographs may be priced for sale, with a commission going to the Art Association.

Entry forms are available in advance at the Art Association or they may be completed at entry time.

WOODCUTS ON VIEW

At Youth Center. The Hansberry Arts Workshop of the Princeton Youth Center is presenting an exhibit of woodcuts by Walter Culbreth of Trenton. Some 27 framed and unframed priots from woodcuts, some in black and white, some in color, and two woodblocks are on view.

The exhibit may be viewed from Monday through Friday from 3-10 p.m. at the Center, 102 Witherspoon street. For further information call 924-0927.

SHOW AND SALE SET

By Weavers Group. The Princeton Weavers Guild will hold an exhibit and demonstration of members' work on Saturday, March 26, in the auditorium of Herman Spiegel's Fine Furniture, located on U.S. Highway 1 and Allen Lane in Lawrenceville.

On display will be wall hangings, fiber sculptures, clothing, pillows, window panels, rugs, and blankets. Many of the pieces will be for sale. Member craftsmen will demonstrate spinning and weaving techniques during the exhibit.

Reflecting the nationwide surge of interest recently in fine hand craftsmanship, the Princeton Weavers Guild has grown from 20 to nearly 100 members in the last three years. Members come to Guild-sponsored meetings, lessons, and workshops from all over New Jersey and Bucks County.

Featured in the upcoming exhibit will be the work of such professional weaver-teachers as Polly Hyde, Barbara Lemme, Betty Park and Cheryl Vernon. Linda B. Walker, fiber representative for the New Jersey Designer and Craftsmans Guild, will show a variety of handspun and dyed yarns. Hours for the show and sale will be 11 to 4.

after "one more major disruption," when the Legislature wrestles with renewing the income-tax or allowing it to die next June, "the financial aspect of things will settle down," and the school board can start long-range planning.

Goals Study Proposed. "I proposed a goals study the first year I was on the board, and the 'curriculum inventory' came out of that," Dr. Meyerhofer continues. "The goals work is a good start."

"I feel we should have very specific goals in academic and vocational accomplishment, and should say them very clearly, not just imply them. Reducing goals to exactly what we want to teach–this will be the most important thing. The community should know what we are trying to accomplish, and how close we're coming to it."

Mrs. Frisch wants future budgets to set figures down "in impeccable and accountable ways, in terms of our goals." She feels the board needs direction in terms of the budget process.

"We need to study other communities, see how they handle their budgeting. This year's procedure was new, but we need help and our budgeting system and presentation must be improved."

What Mrs. Frisch sees as increasing citizen interest in the schools, should be channeled into citizens volunteer groups, she says, like the "Cultural Impact Committee" whose members have taken art and music to elementary schools.

"If budget constraints continue," she says, "we will need to do more. We must stimulate our older, tenured teachers to become more vital."

Dr. Blanc's view of the budget is that it should be passed "not because it's the best in the world nor the most understandable, but because rejection won't lower it by much, and more importantly will involve the board again in a long, complicated series of maneuvers. The board has better things to do than negotiate with the municipalities and the state."

But Dr. Meyerhofer feels the board has improved the job of budget-building and presentation. "It's not the last word," he says, "but we're on the right track, and the board has a better idea of what's in the budget. I'm pleased: we've made considerable progress in the budget process.

Running for a second three-year term, Dr. Meyerhofer says more than one term is important: it takes a year or more to learn, to get the hang of things.

"The board needs new people," Mrs. Frisch declares, "many on the board now have served several terms, and we need new faces. The board becomes insulated from the community." Two terms should be the maximum."

Dr. Blanc wonders whether the board election process shouldn't be done at the same time, and in the same political context as municipal elections in order to involve the community in what he calls educational politics.

HALL FOR WEIDEL

In Republican Primary. "It seems a shame to change, when he's done such a fine job," said Township Mayor Josie Hall this week, announcing her support of Karl Weidel, seeking the Republican nomination for State Assembly.

"It was a very hard decision," Mayor Hall continued, "and it does not imply in any way that Regina Meredith isn't qualified. I just feel that it would be too bad to make a change."

Mr. Weidel, running for his fifth Assembly term, has either co-sponsored or supported environmental legislation, Mayor Hall said. She also cited his support for women's rights, and the income-tax proposals of former Governor William Cahill.

Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley also supports Mr. Weidel.

DATES ANNOUNCED

For Kindergarten Registration. Kindergarten registration for the West-Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School District will be held at the Maurice Hawk School from March 21 through March 23 and at the Wicoff School on March 24 and March 25. The hours of registration will be 8:30 - 12 and 1 - 4.

At the Maurice Hawk School, parents whose last names begin with A-I can register on Monday, March 21, those whose last names begin with J-R Tuesday, March 22, and those whose last names begin with S-Z Wednesday, March 23. All parents can register either day at the Wicoff School.

In order to be eligible for kindergarten in the 1977-78 school year, the child must be five on or before November 30, 1977. Physical examinations are also a requirement for entrance into kindergarten. Registration packets and physical forms may be obtained at the office of each school prior to registration.

In order to complete the registration, the following documents must be presented no later than September 1, 1977: Birth Certificate, Pre-School Physical Form and Complete Immunization Record.

Prospective kindergarteners are invited to visit the kindergarten classes in the spring. Arrangements for these visits will be made at the time of registration.

Primary Election Rules

You must be registered as either a Republican or a Democrat in order to vote in the June 7 primary, and that party designation must be made by April 18.

This means that people who switched from one party to another to vote in a primary must make sure that by April 18, they are registered in the party they want to vote in this year. For example, if you voted in the Democratic primary in 1976 and want to vote in the Republican primary this year, you must change by April 18.

A "declaration of party affiliation" card is available in any municipal building. Fill it out and leave it with the municipal clerk or mail it to the County Board of Elections.

If you can't remember which party you're affiliated with, ask your municipal clerk to look it up for you, ask the committeeman or committeewoman in your election district, or call the County Board of Elections.

APPLICATIONS SOUGHT

For Nursing Scholarship. The Business and Professional Women's Club is now accepting applications for its first annual Louise Maas Nursing Scholarship award. Awarded in honor of the late Louise Maas, a former member of the Club, the $350 scholarship will be presented to a student in a Princeton area school who is planning to pursue a career as a registered or practical nurse.

Application blanks and guidelines are available from the guidance offices of Princeton High School, West Windsor-Plainsboro School and Montgomery High School. Students attending private schools in the area may obtain application blanks from Mrs. Austin B. Macauley, 188 North Harrison Street. The application deadline is March 31.

COMPUTER IS FOCUS

Of Library Program. The computer, a tool designed by people to amplify and extend their own human abilities, will be the center of attention for young library-goers at a workshop. Young people from third grade upward are invited Wednesday, March 30, at 3:30 to the Public Library to meet J. Rogers Woolston, consultant in library automation at RCA's David Sarnoff Research Laboratories.

Using a programmable calculator, Mr. Woolston will demonstrate some of the computer's abilities to compute, to draw, to respond to questions. Older students with some computer experience are invited to come and share their interest with beginners. To register, stop at the children's desk or telephone the children's department at 924-9529.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 20 cents.

Winter Record of Princeton Teams Surpasses Best Performance in History of Ivy League

With virtually no recognition anywhere save in the pages of The Daily Princetonian, Princeton's winter sports teams are completing the most successful season in the history of format Ivy League competition, dating back more than two decades. Since the mid-50s, when the eight colleges began scheduling each other in full in every sport in which they fielded teams, none of them has accomplished what the Tigers have in the season now ending.

The path of Princeton's basketball team to a second straight Ivy title was widely chronicled in the daily press, but even the bare line scores of most other winter sports are rarely if ever found. Reasons range from increasingly early deadlines to the seemingly ceaseless popularity growth of professional sports and their resultant domination of the available space.

In the short span of four months, Princeton has won team championships in:

- Ivy League basketball
- Ivy League wrestling
- Eastern League swimming
- Eastern Intercollegiate swimming
- Ivy League squash
- National Intercollegiate squash
- Ivy League women's basketball
- Ivy League women's swimming

What makes the men's accomplishment so unusual is that they won half (five out of ten) of the championships open to them at all levels of Ivy and Eastern competition. Nor is their dominance a one-shot performance: not only did they defend titles successfully in basketball and in Eastern Intercollegiate swimming (winning the latter event for an unprecedented fifth straight time), but they are likely to rank in the role of favorite in most or all of these sports next winter.

Despite the five straight championships that Penn reeled off in basketball beginning in 1971, the Tigers have finished first in this Ivy League action more often than any other Ivy college. The 1977 title is their 10th since formal play began in 1954. During that time, only Princeton, Penn, Columbia and Dartmouth have won championships in the sport.

Coach Johnny Johnston, who effected a total turnabout within two years of his arrival here in the mid-60s, steered his wrestling team to a variety of achievements, two of them unprecedented in the history of the sport at Princeton. The Tigers won 18 meets during the season, a number never reached before, and placed third in the Eastern Intercollegiates, their highest finish in a tournament perennially dominated by Lehigh, Penn State and the service academies.

For the second year in a row, three Princetonians will enter the national intercollegiates (at Norman, Okla., this weekend), headed by heavyweight John Sefter, the 1977 eastern champion. The Ivy title that came the Tiger's way this winter was their fourth in the current decade and gives them nine first-place finishes in the league since 1956, another mark no Ivy college can match.

Coach Bill Farley's swimmers set a record that not even Yale matched in its hey-day domination of the sport from the '20s to the '50s when they won the Eastern Seaboard championships this month for a fifth straight year. Trailing Harvard after the first day's competition at West Point, they came surging back to win, 344 to 309. Four individuals and two relay teams won championships in their events and six members of the team qualified for the nationals to be held March 23-26 in Philadelphia.

Earlier in the season, Farley's team had swept its eight meets in the Eastern League to succeed Harvard as the champion. The Tigers had won the intercollegiates in 1976 but lost the league title to the Crimson.

In squash, Coach Dave Benjamin's team compiled a perfect 10-0 dual match record and was named national champion after wrapping up the Ivy title. One of two members of the coaching staff to serve as head man in two varsity sports, he has also steered the Princeton tennis team to first place in the Eastern Association.

The women's teams which won basketball and swimming championships at the Ivy level are coached, respectively, by Pat Walsh and Dave Garretson. Walsh, incidentally, has a problem no other Princeton coach at either the men's or women's level is facing: her basketball team was immensely aided on its way to the Ivy crown and a 15-5 season by the play of C.B. Tomaziewicz, who averaged 16.6 points a game, had a season's high of 31, and led her team with 59 assists and 78 steals.

But C.B. (whose mother christened her "Claire") has been the catcher for the past four years with the Connecticut Falcons, who are not only the national champion women's softball team but last year turned professional. Although accepted college policy throughout most of the U.S. is to permit a professional to play, as an amateur, any sport in which he or she is not a pro, the Ivy League predictably doesn't subscribe to such logic. Unless she wins her appeal against the league's stand, C.B. will have to choose between basketball at Princeton and softball in Connecticut.

SPORTS FANS! I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you By John Bernard

One of the strangest basketball games of all-time was the one played for the championship of the 1936 Olympics...In those days, oddly enough, they played basketball outdoors on dirt in the Olympics, and on the day of the finals, there was a heavy rainstorm...Not only did the players play in the rain, but the court was a quagmire with everyone slipping and sliding, covered with mud, and hardly able to dribble...The U.S. won, beating Canada, 19-8, but that game goes down in history as the most unusual world championship basketball game ever played.

Here's an amazing fact about the great golfer, Bobby Jones...Did you know Jones NEVER took a golf lesson in his life—yet he became one of the greatest golfers of all-time.

Of all the major college basketball teams, which ones have the best percentage of games won over the years?...Kentucky has the highest winning percentage of all-time...Ranking 2nd is St. John's of New York...3rd is North Carolina...4th, Western Kentucky...And 5th, Duquesne.

SPORTS In Princeton

NEW SEASON AT HAND

Spring Sports to Begin. A lacrosse game this Thursday and six baseball games next week will mark activity at home for Princeton teams as the spring season starts. Tiger representatives in tennis and track will begin their schedules in the south, while in early April the Princeton crew will row for the first time in California when it takes part in the San Diego Classic.

Under new coach Mike Hanna, the lacrosse team will open its difficult schedule this Thursday at 2 on Poe Field against Maryland. The Terrapins are one of the nation's best in the sport, whipped the Orange and Black last year, 13 to 3, and have not lost in this series in 14 years.

Hanna arrived on the Princeton scene last fall to succeed Art Robinson after having been assistant coach at Navy since 1972. He played lacrosse at Hobart, where he won All-American honors. Expectations are that he will give the Tigers a strong shot at the eight-team NCAA playoffs this spring and that they will move up toward contention in the Ivy League, which they have not won in the past decade.

Dave Tickner, a first-team All-American last spring, and Wick Sollers, the Ivy League's top scorer in 1976, will give Princeton an attack combination that Hanna feels may be one of the nation's best. At some point this spring, both should break the University's scoring record that Ralph "Bo" Willis set in 1953.

Potent Offense. Sollers is co-captain with Tom Leyden, who is a standout midfielder, as is senior Greg Chaires. There is strength in the goal, too, where Kevin Gray returns as a senior likely to win All-Ivy honors for a third year in a row.

If the defense can improve over its 1976 performance, chances of a successful season are bright. The Tigers won three of their last four in May (over Rutgers, Army and Penn) and have high hopes of regaining the momentum generated as the last season was ending.

Fine Kentucky Five Lives Up to Its Billing And Drops Tigers from NCAA Tournament

There were two consoling facts for Princeton's basketball team Saturday night after its 72-58 loss in Philadelphia to Kentucky. First off, the Tigers were beaten by a very good team that played a sizeable amount of excellent basketball, and what's more, six of the seven eastern teams were knocked out of first-round NCAA play with them.

Nothing, however, was consoling about the calibre of basketball the Tigers played. So rapidly did they commit turnovers and so poor was their shooting at the outset that the first half still had five minutes to go when they trailed by 13.

Accuracy from the free-throw line when the Wildcats went over the limit with seven minutes left helped the Orange and Black pare the deficit to seven (29-22) at the buzzer, and the Tigers left with noisy encouragement from a large majority of the 9,200 fans in the Palestra.. Virtually all of the Notre Dame and Hofstra backers, on hand for the second game of the doubleheader, were cheering for the underdog Princetonians to knock off Kentucky.

When play resumed, the Tigers narrowed the gap a bit further (to 31-26) but the victors proceeded to break the contest open by hitting on nine of their first ten shots from the floor. The pace was virtually all dictated by Kentucky, and its lead midway through the final period mounted to 21 before the final margin was set at 14. A point-a-minute pace by 6-11 Tom Young, in relief of Bob Roma after latter had fouled out, aided the Tigers' cause belatedly when Young collected 10 points.

Errors Prove Costly. To the surprise of their followers, who felt they had been there before and would not show the effects of pressure, the Tigers made mistakes in three categories that put them behind in a hurry. Contrary to normal character, they took the poor shot, were guilty of defensive lapses and committed an unusual number of turnovers. Because they had to make 55 to 60 percent of their shots to have a chance of winning, and because their slow-down tactics only aid the opposition when they are behind, the outcome was clearly discernible before the game was much more than 25 minutes old.

A floor shooting average of 28 percent in the first half (with the normally skilled Frank Sowinski making just two out of seven) killed off much of Princeton's hopes. When the 90 percent performance early in the final period boosted Kentucky's mark for the night to a final showing of 58 percent, that was better than any opponent had done against the Tigers all winter.

Although no better than 4-for-11 in field goals, Sowinski added 8 of 10 free throws to finish as Princeton's high man with 16. Young and Billy Omeltchenko joined him in double figures with 10 apiece.

After the game, the team named Sowinski and Omo as co-captains for 1977-78. Sowinski has started every game for the past two years save when benched briefly by injury last season; Omo played more than any other reserve a year ago and started every game this winter when not sidelined by an appendectomy for a little over two weeks.

Same Format In 1978 Race. The next battle for the Ivy title will in all likelihood follow this year's form chart – Penn and Columbia hoping to dethrone Princeton, with the other five either battling for the remaining first division berth or hoping to stay out of the cellar. Losing only Captain Bob Slaughter from this year's winners, Princeton will be a slight favorite to retain the title for a third year. Penn, building again around its standout, Keven McDonald, with its fine sophomores a year older, will be somewhat more of a threat to overtake the Orange and Black than Columbia, although the Lions haven't a single senior on their squad and maturity will help the rest markedly.

Contrary to other years, there was no solid freshman team among the eight Ivies, whose recruiting is obviously suffering from maintenance of the freshman rule. Of the (7-7) Princeton freshman team, the only likely bets to reach the 14-man varsity squad next winter are Steve Hilton and Kevin Cuskley, a pair of forwards, and Jim Smullins, a guard. Hilton is already being mentioned as a replacement for Slaughter, although the degree of varsity experience that junior Bob Kleinert has accumulated may give him the edge.

In final league statistics, Princeton placed first in three team categories: defense, 47.2 points allowed; field goal shooting, .527 percent; and free throw shooting, .773 percent. Sowinski was first in field goal percentage with a mark of .650, and third in scoring with a 19.5 average to 20.1 for Brian Saunders of Brown and 20.0 for McDonald.

The 1977 schedule:

March 17, Maryland; 26, Fairleigh-Dickinson.

April 2, Johns Hopkins, away; 9, Navy; 13, Penn, away; 16, Yale, away; 23, Dartmouth; 27, Brown; 30, Harvard.

May 4, Rutgers, 7, Cornell, away; 14, Army, away.

Tiger Nine at Home. Budgetary problems have grounded the baseball team which has gone south for many years until this spring. In place of those trips, a round-robin schedule has been booked for Clarke Field, involving Providence, Southeastern Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

The Tigers will face those three teams in order Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and will repeat against them Thursday, Friday and Saturday. All action will start at 2 o'clock.

Coach Len Rivers, beginning his second year, has a major rebuilding task ahead of him after losing eight of the nine starters from last year's 22-17-1 team. The Tigers finished second in the Eastern League, which they have not won in nearly a quarter century.

South Carolina, North Carolina and Duke are on the tennis team's schedule next week, all matches on the road. The track team will go to Alabama for the Troy State Open Monday and then partake in the Florida Relays at Tallahassee next weekend.

The first regatta on Lake Carnegie will open a busy home season on April 9 when Rutgers rows here. Navy and Princeton will stage their annual race the following week, with Rutgers, Northeastern and Yale also using the lake that afternoon because of adverse tidal conditions on the Raritan.

Harvard's invariably strong crew will come here April 30 with MIT for the Compton Cup regatta, with the colorful Eastern Sprints climaxing the season on Sunday, May 16.

ST. PAUL'S VICTOR

In Basketball Tournament. The St. Paul's School basketball team ended its season last week with a 50-39 victory over the Hillsborough All-Stars in the championship game of the Hillsborough Invitational Tournament.

First-place finisher in its division in the Mercer County CYO Grammar School League, St. Paul's ended with an overall 15-5 record. Early in the season, it finished third in the Holy Cross Christmas Invitational Tournament.

Against the Hillsborough All-Stars, St. Paul's combined a tight defense, the shooting of Mark Tagliaferri and the rebounding of Pat McAvenia to forge its win. The defense limited Hillsborough to three points in the first period and 12 in the first half, while St. Paul's was scoring 27.

Tagliaferri led all scorers with 16 points, while McAvenia had a career high 21 rebounds and added 7 points. Mike Shipley of St. Paul's scored 9.

The program is for ages 6-18 and will include Saturday leagues for all players as well as All-Star teams for those of superior ability.

Boys and girls will be divided according to birth and ability into teams in one of five different leagues. Every team in The Princeton Soccer Club is sponsored by a business firm in the community, and every team player will receive a shirt with the name of the sponsor on the back.

Formal registration for the spring program will be held this Saturday and next Saturday, March 26, from 9-12 at Baker Rink on the campus of Princeton University. Those who have received application forms may register by mailing them to P.O. Box 257, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

Princeton Considers 10th Football Game Next Fall in Tokyo, Japan, It Says Here

The changing football scene at Princeton has another new look this week: the University is considering the possibility of playing a game in Tokyo, Japan, on November 19.

Two months ago, even the concept of a ten - game schedule was out of the question. Now it may become an actuality and the Tigers would go half way round the world to keep the commitment.

So popular are most forms of sport in heavily - populated Japan that college football, American style, is catching a toe - hold. Last fall, when Grambling College and Morgan State went to Tokyo at the invitation of Japanese officials, they drew 55,000 fans.

Now, Grambling's athletic director and football coach, Eddie Robinson, has approached Princeton to see if the Tigers would be interested. Sam Howell, Princeton's associate director of athletics who handles schedule - making policy, said that a formal invitation from the Japanese embassy in Washington is expected this week.

"After that," Howell said, "it's up to the administration to determine whether the guys on the squad can be permitted to miss that much class work. They would be away from the campus from Wednesday until the following Monday, right in the middle of the fall term. But it would be a great opportunity for everyone involved — most of them might not otherwise see Japan in their life - time.

"The interesting thing about the invitation is that it came just two weeks after the Ivy League presidents had approved adding a tenth game to the schedule," Howell went on. "Not only that, but the date in question is November 19, the only fall Saturday we could book a tenth game this year."

Howell also reported progress in setting up ten games for Princeton when the next decade begins. Because ten games are not possible in either '78 or '79 under the limitations set by the presidents, the first open date is November 8, 1980. The University of Maine will play in Palmer Stadium that day and again on November 7, 1981.

This indicates that Princeton has been able to insert the extra contest before it plays the last two Ivy opponents on its schedule. Three years from now, the Tigers will face Maine on November 8, go to New Haven to play Yale the following Saturday and finish here with Dartmouth on November 22. The following year, Maine, Yale and Cornell will come here for the last three games. In 107 years of football, Princeton and Maine have not previously met.

SKEYS WIN TITLE

In Couples Paddle League. In the couple's league playoffs held last month Sally and Jerry Skey defeated Lanny and Henry King in the paddle tennis finals.

The League is open to residents of Princeton on a first come, first serve basis. For information about next year's season and registration, call the Recreation Department, 921-9480, or Ellen Hendrickson, 924-3011.

THIRD IN A ROW

For Joint Effort Five. Joint Effort rebounded from a late season slump to defeat Princeton Youth Center, 76-68, for its third straight league championship in the PRD Men's Basketball League. Tony Jenkins led the victors' attack with 21 points, while Wayne Harris had 20 for Youth Center.

Youngn's defeated Ivy Inn, 70-60, to capture third place and will play Princeton Youth Center in the semi-final playoffs. Ivy Inn will oppose Joint Effort. Both are two-out-of-three series.

All games are played at Princeton High School's large gym, beginning at 7:15 p.m. The finals are scheduled for Monday and next Wednesday. Admission is free.

BOMBERS NIP ARABIANS

In Championship Contest. Peter Sharpless' offensive tap-in with 30 seconds left was the difference, as the Red Bombers last week overcame a 13-5 first quarter deficit to defeat the Arabians, 61-59, at Dillon Gym. Sharpless finished with 28.

As was apparent all season, the two teams were evenly matched. The Arabians were led inside by Pat McAvenia (21 points) and Percy Randall (18) who did the bulk of their scoring.

In addition to Sharpless, the Bombers also received strong play from Mike Kennedy (11 points) who scored several key baskets down the stretch and from Mario Mangone (13 points) who was a standout on defense of steals.

The Arabians lost the game on the charity stripe as they could convert only 7 of 22 shots, the Bombers, on the other hand, converted 12 of 21.

WINNERS LISTED

In Swim Meet Sunday. Princeton Aquatic swimmers competed last week in the new natatorium at Ocean County College in Toms River in an AAU "A" meet.

In the 13-14 girls age group, Tara Leddy won her 500-yard freestyle event in the fine time of 5:35.92. In the boys 11-12 200-yard freestyle, Eric Breisacher won a gold medal by about a body length in the Triple A time of 2:09.82. He also placed second in the 50-yard breaststroke (36.23).

The boys strong 10-u contingent was represented by Brent Matheson, who touched second in the 50-yard freestyle in the very fast Triple A time of 29.94. John Bolster, also 10-u, earned a silver medal in the 100-yard breaststroke after overcoming a strong challenge by Chip Hector in the last lap of the event. For the 10-u girls, Laurie Long returned with a silver medal and a Triple A time of 30.68 in the 50-yard freestyle.

PAYTON NAMED AGAIN

To the Penn-Jersey Team. For the second year in a row, Hun's Ron Payton has been named to the Penn-Jersey all-star basketball team. The 6-4 junior center scored 736 points this year and had a 24-point average.

John Brady, who co-captained the Hun team this year with Payton, was named to the second team. Brady averaged 12 points a game and, like Payton, will return next year.

Ken Duvin and Tom Dilliane of Hun were among nine league players to receive honorable mention. Hun finished with a 21-9 record this season and won the Class A Prep School state championship for the first time.
